Firms Expected To Grant Loans For New Homes

The Dominion government now feels that at least some Canadian lending institutions can be persuaded to enter actively into housing loans in Alberta, it is stated in a letter from Hon. J. L. Halsey, Dominion finance minister, received Monday by Hon. Lucien Maynard, K.C., attorney-general.

The letter from the Dominion minister is in reply to one sent by Mr. Maynard last week, which enclosed a draft of the National Housing Loans Act (Alberta). The bill, brought into the Legislature last Friday, is designed to facilitate granting of NHA loans in Alberta. It provides that certain provisions of several provincial statutes will not apply to loans made under the National Housing Act (1944).

ILSLEY'S LETTER

Mr. Halsey's letter, in part, reads as follows: "I wish to thank you for your letter of the 20th inst., enclosing an amended draft bill which you propose to present to your."

E.C. "Dutch" Lyons Is Fined $5,000

Erwood C. "Dutch" Lyons, second hand automobile dealer, was fined $5,000 in police court Tuesday by Magistrate H. L. Hawe, K.C., on an indictment of 70 counts of infractions of the War-time Prices and Trade Board regulations.

The fine, which the accused was given until 2 p.m. to pay, is stated to be a record high for the Edmonton police court. In the alternative of non-payment Lyons will spend one year in Fort Saskatchewan jail. Counsel for the accused intimated the fine would be paid, and that the request for time for payment was merely to permit the issuance of a marked cheque in payment.

Lyons pleaded guilty Monday to 70 counts of infractions of WTPB regulations, of which 42 were for selling over the ceiling, one for purchasing over the ceiling, and 27 for making false statements.

He still faces directives from the motor vehicle controller ordering him to return to purchasers the amount charged over the ceiling set by the WTPB, and civil action by the purchasers for return of the amounts overcharged.

Fair Weather

Weather forecast for the Edmonton area is "Clear and cool overnight, continuing mild Wednesday," with the estimated high for today 48 above zero.

Monday's rainfall totalled .07 inches, and Tuesday morning there was a light ground frost. Maximum temperature Monday was 43, and the minimum, 36. The overnight low was 34, and at 2 p.m. it was 45 above. Estimated overnight low is 25, and the high tomorrow, 50.

No Pension

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—Defence Minister Macdonald was not granted a pension after his retirement from the Canadian Army during the present war, it was reported yesterday in a reply tabled in the Commons for D. G. Ross (P.C.—Souris).

Sweeping Ahead Russian Army Only 20 Miles From Austria

By ROBERT MUSEL
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
LONDON, March 27.—(BUP)—Red Army vanguards today swept to within a scant 20 miles from the Austrian border, some 65 miles southeast of Vienna, aided by precision bombing of the 15th American Air Force which attacked German concentration points in the path of the Russians.

German reports acknowledged that the Soviet pressure on the irregular 170-mile front had increased and that Red Army spearheads had flanked the important communications centres of Komárom and Győr in a drive to the Marcal canal and the lower Raab river.

The Marcal canal runs about seven miles west of Papa, captured by the Russians yesterday, and joins the Raab northwest of Papa. The Raab in this area is only 20 miles from the Austrian frontier and runs roughly parallel to it.

HEAVY FIGHTING

German reports said fighting was very heavy and that the Russians were making gains.

For Improvements Labor Council Asks Revision Home Program

Request has been forwarded to Wartime Housing Ltd. by the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council seeking a revision of the plans of the houses to be built here by the company for occupancy exclusively by ex-servicemen, it was announced Tuesday by Ald. Sidney Parsons, president of the council.

The request seeks full basements and full length chimneys on these homes, and it is stated in the telegram sent to the company that the membership of the trades body here is definitely opposed to creating additional sub-standard housing or the frustration of the city's building by-laws.

NOT SUPPORTED

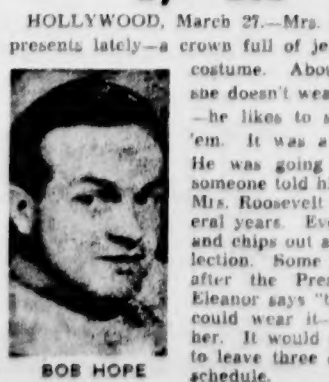

Ald. Parsons intimated that it had been learned that information given to the city commissioners and city council recently by officials of Wartime Housing Ltd. respecting the proposed home-building project was not supported by the specifications of these dwellings.

He said that instead of the concrete basement going below the frost line, and the homes being built on a concrete base of at least six feet, it was proposed to merely remove the top soil and build them on concrete footings of about 12 to 18 inches.

Argentina Declares War Against Axis

BUENOS AIRES, March 27.—(BUP)—The Argentine government has declared war on the Axis, it was announced officially today. President Edelmiro Farrell personally made the announcement of the declaration of war.

"The decision has been taken. That's all I have to say," Farrell said.

BOB HOPE

HOLLYWOOD, March 27.—Mrs. Roosevelt has received a lot of presents lately—a crown full of jewels, a mink coat, and a harem costume. About that harem costume, I hope she doesn't wear it the next time Churchill calls—she likes to smoke those cigars, not swallow 'em. It was a gift from the King of Arabia. He was going to send an elephant but then someone told him what she stood for over here. Mrs. Roosevelt has had the gold crown for several years. Every year Morgenthau drops over and chips out a few jewels for his March 15 collection. Some African potentate sent it to her after the President's Casablanca conference. Eleanor says "the crown is terrific—but nobody could wear it—it's too heavy." I don't blame her. It would slow her down—she would have to leave three or four countries off her weekly schedule.

ARMY LEGISLATOR IS WELCOMED.—Capt. J. Harper Prowse, army member of the Legislature, is seen above as he shook hands with Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson in the assembly on Monday just prior to taking his seat for the first time. The army member was introduced to Mr. Speaker by CPO. L. D. Ward, navy member (left), and Wing Cmdr. F. C. Colborne, DFC (right), air force member. Captain Prowse, who returned to Edmonton Sunday after more than four and a half years' service overseas, was given a thunderous ovation by members and visitors in the galleries as he took his seat. Wearing the Canadian Army battle dress uniform, the new member was conducted before Mr. Speaker Dawson by his fellow service representatives, Wing Cmdr. Colborne and CPO L. D. Ward, who took their seats Feb. 26. Capt. Prowse is a former member of The Edmonton Bulletin editorial staff and has served with The Loyal Edmonton Regiment in Italy.

Hitler Plans for Defeat

Nazi Collapse Said Possible Within Week

By JACK BRAYLEY
OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King's statement in the Commons that Allied successes in Germany gave reason to hope that final disintegration of the German army may not be long delayed lent emphasis last night to reports current in capital circles during the week-end that the collapse was a possibility within a week.

Sources, usually well-informed, also said information reaching here told of plans already having been made for Hitler and his close henchmen to blow themselves up in a last defiant gesture to avoid personal capitulation.

While pointing to reports that the German collapse may come in a week, these same circles made it clear that a "hard core" of organized Nazi resistance, centred at Berchtesgaden, will hold out for months after the military defeat.

Unanimous Vote City's Tax Rate for 1945 Again Struck at 49½ Mills

Edmonton's city council, by unanimous vote Monday night, set the tax rate for 1945 at 49½ mills, the same rate that has prevailed during the past two years.

There was little discussion on the tax rate, and the request of the Taxpayers' Protective Association of Edmonton for a substantial decrease in the rate was ordered struck from the agenda without comment. The communication, requesting the decrease, had been received earlier in the month by city council, and was left over for consideration when the estimates were being considered.

Council approved the departmental expenditures, including the public and separate school grants; grants to hospitals, and other miscellaneous items, amounting to $5,217,472, an increase of $39,912 over the actual expenditures of $5,177,560 in 1944.

Revenue Estimates

Revenue estimates for a similar amount were approved. It is estimated that $1,658,333 will come from departmental revenue, including business tax, surplus and taxes from operations of the city.

New Railway Line Asked For Alberta

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—Joseph M. DeChene (L. Athabasca) yesterday gave notice of a motion suggesting a post-war reconstruction program including establishment of a new rail and highway arteries in northern Alberta and Saskatchewan.

He suggested one line from Prince Albert through Meadow Lake, Sask., and extending in a westerly direction to the Cold Lake region in Alberta and through the area north of the Beaver river to Lac La Biche and Athabasca and the Peace River country.

This line would link with the Northern Alberta Railway system and include the closing of a short gap on the Edmonton-St. Paul-Turkington line from Meisberg in Alberta to Frenchman's Butte, Sask.

He also suggested consideration of a connection between St. Paul and Bonnyville in Alberta and the construction of a highway from Edmonton to Fort McMurray.

Montgomery's Armies Break Onto North Route to Berlin

By BOYD LEWIS
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

PARIS, March 27.—(BUP)—The German retreat from the Rhine broke into a chaotic rout along a 250-mile front from Karlsruhe to the Dutch border today. Nazi troops were reported in headlong flight as far as 90 miles east of the river and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said the Allies have won a complete and crushing victory.

Eisenhower said that although they were beaten in the west, the Germans might try to reform on a new front closer to Berlin.

At the "top" of the western front, Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's four Allied field armies burst into the Ruhr basin within three miles of Essen and broke through the German battle screen guarding the Westphalian plain and the northern invasion road to Berlin.

U.S. Ninth Army infantry crossed the Neue Emacher canal and entered the northern suburbs of the Ruhr city of Duisburg.

1ST ARMY ADVANCE

American First Army armored spearheads drove 27 miles deeper into Germany, reaching the Dill river two miles west of Weaslar, 58 miles from the Rhine.

The First Army spearheads were near Felsbach and Edingen, both 20 miles northeast of Limburg.

Another First Army column moved southeast and linked up with the Third Army at Lahnstein, just south of Coblenz.

Weaslar is the site of the famous Leica camera works.

Alaska Highway Future Queried

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—The post-war fate of the Alaska highway and some of its facilities was subject of an inquiry tabled on the Commons order paper today by George Black (P.C., Yukon).

Mr. Black asked whether it was the intention of the Canadian government to maintain the highway, whether United States army buildings along the route would be surrendered to Canada and if so would these buildings be available for purchase by the public.

Mr. Black also gave notice of a question asking whether the Standard Oil Co., as agent for the United States Army, was discontinuing oil operations at Fort Norman in the North-West Territories, and if so would the Canadian government undertake to continue production to benefit residents and industries in Northern Canada.

Lancasters Bomb U-Boat Shelters At Farge, Germany

LONDON, March 27.—(BUP)—RAF Lancasters attacked U-boat shelters today at Farge, near Wagsack, Germany, and an oil storage depot in the same area, blasting the targets with 11-ton bombs.

A smaller force of heavy bombers raided the Konigsborn and Sachsen benzol plants near Hamm. Mosquito bombers dropped two-ton blockbusters on Berlin last night for the 35th straight night.

Eisenhower Says: Nazis Are Whipped But Tough Fighting May Yet Face Allies

PARIS, March 27.—(AP)—Gen. Eisenhower said today that the main German defence line in the west has been broken and the Germans are a whipped army. But there still may be tough fighting ahead and the enemy may form a new front where maintenance problems will handicap the Allies, he said.

The supreme commander declared he believed there would not be a negotiated unconditional surrender of Germany, but rather that unconditional surrender would be imposed when the Allies in the west linked with the Russian armies.

The Germans, he said, have suffered a defeat they cannot afford, and need more strength than they now have in the west to establish another line.

But Allied troubles are not yet over, he added. There may be stern fighting ahead, especially in the north.

He warned against expecting a straight Allied run to Berlin.

The German army is a whipped army, but that does not mean the enemy cannot form a new front at a point where our maintenance problems become an obstacle to us, the supreme commander continued.

He emphasized that the Allies still have some tough fighting ahead, particularly in the north where the 21st Army group, which includes the 1st Canadian Army, crossed the Rhine last Saturday.

Gen. Eisenhower called the elimination of German forces west of the Rhine one of the greatest victories of the war.

Sharp Skirmishes On Italian Front

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
ROME, March 27.—(BUP)—Sharp patrol skirmishes were reported today on the Fifth and Eighth Army fronts in Italy.

Headquarters reported German patrols were growing more aggressive in the Eighth Army sector. Enemy patrols, using searchlights, raided forward British positions north of Faenza but were repulsed with casualties.

The Germans hurled an intense artillery barrage at the Fifth Army's central sector below Bologna. Elsewhere on the Fifth Army front activity was limited to patrolling.

Heavy bombers of the 15th U.S. Air Force hit communication centres in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Austria through which German supplies are being sent to the Eastern Front.

sians also were attacking south and southeast of Olomouc.

Just west of the Russians, the 15th air force carried out a series of attacks designed to soften up the Nazis and enable the Russians to penetrate their inner mountain fortress.

These attacks hit rail yards in Bratislava, the Czech-Austrian border city toward which the Red Army is driving, 35 miles east of Vienna, the Szombathely yards in western Hungary, 70 miles south of Vienna, the Strasshof yards in Austria, 15 miles east of Vienna, the Bruck yards, 30 miles south of Vienna, and the Wiener Neustadt yards, 30 miles southeast of Vienna.

BATTLES BREAK OUT

Fighting flared anew at Kuestern where the Germans reported intense Soviet attacks with heavy artillery support had enabled the Russians to score some gains.

Far to the northeast, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Russian Army drove through the third and last outer defense belt protecting the Baltic port of Danzig and was within a mile west and northwest of the city.

Midway between the Vienna and Berlin fronts, Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army captured the German Silesian city of Strehlen, 19 miles south of Breslau. Premier Stalin announced the fall of Strehlen in a special order of the day.

Konev's troops also seized the Polish road centre of Rybnik, 94 miles south-southeast of Breslau and 20 miles from the Moravian gap leading into Nazi-occupied Czechoslovakia.

legislation to remove certain of the statutory impediments to lending under the National Housing Act (1944), in the province of Alberta.

I wish to thank you for your assurance that your government will not amend the Rules of Court, with regard to costs in an undrafted action in respect of a mortgage or agreement of sale so as to affect mortgages under the National Housing Act, 1944.

"Your amended draft bill would appear to modify the mortgage law in Alberta sufficiently to justify the Dominion in participating in joint loans in that province and I would anticipate that the approved lending institutions under the National Housing Act, 1944, will co-operate. You realize, of course, that the Dominion has no control over the lending policy of the companies, but we feel that some, at least, of them can now be persuaded to enter actively into housing loans in Alberta jointly with the Dominion."

Concluding his letter, Mr. Halsey said: "I shall simply advise the companies which have been approved as lending institutions under the National Housing Act, 1944, that they are prepared to introduce a bill which seeks to remove the chief statutory impediments to lending in Alberta under the National Housing Act, 1944, and that the Dominion, therefore, feels justified in participating with them in making joint loans in that province for housing purposes."

PASS LEGISLATION

The legislation referred to in Mr. Halsey's letter was approved by the Legislature in committee of the whole Monday afternoon. It was reported for third reading.

When it was under discussion, W. J. Williams (Veterans'-Edmonton), asked if it would mean the way was clear for Dominion housing loans to be made in Alberta.

"Insofar as Dominion authority is concerned, the way is clear," Mr. Maynard said in reply. The minister added that the Dominion felt that at least some of the lending companies would be willing to come into the province.

There has been no assurance from the lending companies that the legislation introduced was satisfactory, Mr. Maynard stated. Mr. Halsey was satisfied that there was no valid reason why the mortgage companies should not come into Alberta.

Question of the Mechanics' Lien Act was brought up by J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton), who wanted to know if that act was the "bone of contention" with the mortgage companies.

OBJECTED TO LAW

Replying, Mr. Maynard said that before the Mechanics' Lien Act was amended in 1943, the mortgage companies objected to coming into Alberta until the government repealed its legislation concerning old debts.

The Dominion finance minister has agreed that there is no relation between the National Housing Act and old loans, and was not requesting the provincial government to repeal legislation dealing with the old debts, Mr. Maynard added.

Discussing the Edmonton housing situation, Mr. Williams said there were 2,000 families in the city that needed homes. There were 200 buildings planned under the wartime housing scheme, but as far as he knew, not one contract had been let, the member added.

"If another 500 men come back from overseas and have to live under the conditions experienced by those who have come back, there will be trouble—serious trouble," Mr. Williams said. He stated that until the mortgage companies agree to come into the province, the situation remains the same.

Civil Service Appointment Is Protested

Protest of a recent appointment here in the department of Veterans' Affairs and an early statement of intentions by the federal government as to future use of Aircraft Repair Ltd., were subjects of two resolutions passed unanimously at a special meeting of the Edmonton Central Council of War Auxiliaries held in the Memorial hall Monday afternoon.

The council represents 18 organizations. The resolution concerning the civil service appointment is as follows:

GRAVE DISCONTENT

Whereas certain appointments by civil service commission are causing grave discontent in veterans' organizations, more especially with regard to appointments under the department of veterans' affairs, and whereas we feel that these appointments have been subject to the approval of the Liberal executive, we, the central committee of the war auxiliaries, have called a special meeting to protest the appointment recently made public of the district superintendent of rehabilitation for this area, and ask that this appointment be revoked.

This appointment has not gone through the proper channels, we ask that same be advised.

Whereas there are a large number of returned men who are seeking to rehabilitate themselves, who could admirably fill this position it is very definitely felt that the system of dealing with such appointments which have a vital effect on all veterans, should be changed.

Notice of such new appointments should be submitted to veterans' organizations, who in turn, would receive application and submit a list of suitable appointees for your final approval.

SECOND RESOLUTION

The resolution on Aircraft Repair Ltd., is as follows:

Resolved that the federal government of Canada be asked to advise as to their intentions in regard to Aircraft Repair Limited, Edmonton, and whereas the facilities of this plant admit of the easy adaptation to the manufacture of household commodities and utensils, toys, etc., and whereas the urgent need exists to provide employment for veterans of this war, especially disabled veterans, it is required that this plant be utilized for the express purpose of meeting this urgent need; the plant to be operated by the government of Canada expressly for and in the interest of veterans; under no circumstances whatsoever shall the plant be allowed to pass to private control.

By Hon. T. A. Crerar Single Commonwealth Voice At World Security Parley Seen as Cause of Friction

By CHESTER BLOOM
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, March 27.—Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, took strong issue in the House Monday afternoon with the speech made last Thursday by Howard C. Green, Progressive Conservative, in which Mr. Green had argued that the British Commonwealth of Nations should have a seat on the security council of the United Nations instead of merely the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland.

Mr. Crerar said the inference was that Canada should speak with one voice through the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Mr. Crerar denied that he meant that; what he meant was the British Commonwealth of Nations should have a seat on the security council and Canada should also have a separate seat in the assembly of the United Nations.

INSTANT ACTION

Near the end of his speech Mr. Crerar declared emphatically that military action against an aggressor must be on the instant; he said he agreed with a remark by Karl Homuth, Progressive Conservative, Waterloo South, that: "It must be action on the minute; not waiting for parliament."

Mr. Crerar's statement caused a buzz of comment in the corridors that this was perhaps a difference with the statement by the Prime Minister that if any commitment were sought from Canada to send Canadian troops abroad, it would be embodied in an agreement "coming in effect only after it had been ratified by parliament."

However, Mr. Crerar himself did not take that view.

Mr. Crerar said it would be poor business, if the city council of Ottawa "had to be called together to decide whether the fire apparatus should be sent out" to a fire on an Ottawa street.

QUESTION AT ISSUE

To a remark by R. B. Hanson, York Sunbury, Progressive Conservative, that this was not Mr. King's position, Mr. Crerar replied that was not right. The question at issue, of course, is whether after Canada signs a separate agreement, approved by parliament, to provide specific military forces for the security, they can be used at once against an incipient aggressor, without further reference to parliament.

Mr. Crerar is expected to clarify this question in his closing speech. "The dispute between Mr. Crerar and Mr. Green over whether Mr. Green meant Canada to speak with one voice" arose when Mr. Crerar said that Mr. Green had argued that Canada should have been represented at the Dumbarton Oaks conference through the British Commonwealth of Nations.

Mr. Green was not in the house at the moment but R. B. Hanson, Progressive Conservative, York Sunbury, said he did not think Mr. Green had said that.

Thereupon Mr. Crerar quoted Mr. Green from Hansard as having said:

"I believe the Dumbarton Oaks proposals ignore existence of the British Commonwealth of Nations at the suggestion of the Canadian government."

"I was going to say," went on Mr. Crerar, "that is complete nonsense, but at any rate there is no foundation whatever for the statement."

The minister also said he believed also that Mr. Green had wrongly interpreted remarks of Prime Minister Churchill and Hon. Mr. Eden that they favored "one voice" for the British Commonwealth of Nations. If they had meant that, they would have said merely "British Commonwealth" instead of adding as they did, "of Nations," meaning to include with Russia and the United States, Britain and also Canada, Australia, South Africa, all members of the Commonwealth.

SAID HAIR-SPLITTING

Mr. Hanson said that was hair-splitting.

"The hon. member from Vancouver," asserted Mr. Crerar, "proceeded in his argument with regard to the advantages that would come to Canada if we spoke with one voice through the Commonwealth of Nations."

Mr. Green, who had come into the house at this moment, interjected: "I did not put it that way."

"No other inference can, I think, be properly drawn from his remarks," declared Mr. Crerar.

"The minister must not put words in my mouth," objected Mr. Green, "I said on the security council."

"My hon. friend," went on Mr. Crerar, "was speaking not only of Dumbarton Oaks but, for instance, of the security council which I said there should be a Commonwealth seat rather than a seat held only by the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. I was very careful to point out that Canada would still have her seat on the assembly."

Mr. Crerar then read from Hansard the passage from Mr. Green's speech which was: "Thus, if Canada makes this request, and if it is granted Canada, still with a seat on the assembly, will be sitting permanently on the security council where the important decisions are being made."

"Surely," put in Mr. Hanson, "that is the point he made; to speak with one voice on the security council."

"Let me ask this question of the member for York-Sunbury," retorted Mr. Crerar, "does he think for a moment, that if the whole group of the British Commonwealth of Nations were tied together in one representation in the council or anywhere else, they could have at the same time their independent representatives in the assembly, or any other organization?"

"That is," commented Mr. Crerar, as Mr. Hanson made no answer, "I say quite frankly, it is a matter of the first magnitude, if it ever is to be brought about."

The minister then proceeded to quote at length from a speech delivered by Viscount Cranborne, British minister for dominion affairs, the gist of which was that a certain comparison can be drawn between the Commonwealth and a family where, as the children grow up they become independent entities and personalities. Mothers tend to keep their children on leading strings too long. "Such a course," Viscount Cranborne said, "leads finally to friction, and alienation of the child."

Mr. Crerar said the analogy was perfectly sound.

"If we ever come to a state," he said, "and I do not believe it will ever happen—where the Commonwealth speaks with one voice, whether it be in the council of the League of Nations, or at Dumbarton Oaks; at San Francisco or at any other conference, it is as certain as night follows day, that the friction, difficulties and differences which would be bound to arise under these conditions would irretrievably break those Commonwealth nations to pieces."

IN TOUCH DAILY

"And so I must proceed on the basis of that which we are doing. It is one of continued consultation with the aid of progress made in modern means of consultation. The prime minister of Canada, Great Britain, Australia and South Africa can be in daily touch with each other. They are in daily touch with each other. And that is the line along which this wise, safe and sound development must take place. The moment we try to draw closer to get these different entities together, we are going to have trouble."

"Are we not fighting a war together," asked Mr. Green.

Ignoring the remark, Mr. Crerar went on to discuss certain features of the proposals before the San Francisco conference.

He said the question of voting on the security council has been left blank at Dumbarton Oaks, but at Yalta it was cleared up to the extent that any one of the permanent members of the council charged with aggression cannot refuse to have the case ventilated; "but they can refuse to permit punitive action should a decision go against them."

That seemed a definite weakness to him, said Mr. Crerar, but so important was the conference that if this difficulty could not be bridged, "then I would be supporting it as it stands."

"So would I," put in Mr. Hanson.

DISTRUST BY RUSSIA

Mr. Crerar went on to say that no doubt the reason for it was suspicion and distrust by Russia of other countries. He recalled that he had "merely" resigned from the government when in December 1919, Canada had sent a contingent of troops to Vladivostok to try to help "two different sections within the country to settle their disputes in favor of one." "That," he said, "was wholly wrong; it was unwarranted interference and remains still in the minds of our Russian friends."

"I do not like that provision in the Dumbarton Oaks proposals," he said, "and I hope it may be possible to have it changed."

SUSIE Q. SMITH—May 17

Mr. Crerar said another point of great importance is the manner in which force may be used against a law breaker—international gangsters—once judgment has been rendered against that law-breaker.

"The old league," he said, "had no teeth in it; as I see it there is no use trying to build a peace structure if the machinery is not there for quick and certain punishment for any nation whether big or small that violates the code. It must be quick and it must be certain."

At this point the minister of mines and resources quoted at length from a statement by former Governor Stassen of Minnesota, anti-isolationist leader in the north-west United States, who has said: "There may be diplomats who do not know it; there may be many political leaders who are afraid to admit it; there may be many people who do not understand it. But the extreme principle of absolute nationalistic sovereignty is of the middle ages, and it is dead. It died with the aeroplane, the radio, the rocket, and the robot bomb."

PROFOUNDLY TRUE

"I think," approved Mr. Crerar, "that is a profoundly true statement. If at San Francisco and what follows, the nations of the world cannot work out some means of maintaining and ensuring peace in the world, then black indeed are the years that lie ahead."

"It must be action on the minute, not waiting for parliament," put in Karl Homuth, Progressive Conservative (Waterloo South).

"I agree with the member for Waterloo South," declared Mr. Crerar.

"It will have to be dealt with quickly and effectively; it is much the same as a fire brigade in a municipality. If a fire were to break out in one of the streets of Ottawa, it would be poor business if the city council had to be called together to decide whether or not the fire apparatus should be sent out."

Mr. Hanson (York-Sunbury) said that was not the prime minister's position, or Mr. Fielding's, the late Mr. Fielding's position.

Mr. Crerar said Mr. Hanson was not right. "I think I am," retorted Mr. Hanson.

Mr. Crerar went on to tell of visiting the civic hospital recently and seeing a blind young man in uniform led out of an elevator by two elderly people, apparently his parents.

"I think again," he said "of a young man from Saskatchewan who was in our naval services, and who lost his life less than two years ago in the winter, icy waters of the northern Atlantic; I think of another young man from Ontario who crashed to eternity over Germany in a burning plane."

TERrible MISERIES

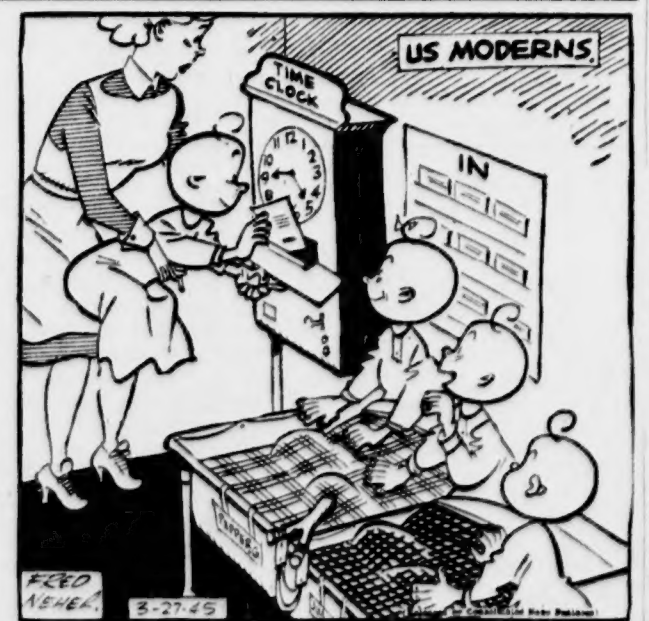

"When I think of these cases and of all the terrible miseries that have been inflicted on this world by this war, I say that there is no reasonable length to which the Canadian people should not go to try to prevent forever that sort of catastrophe. That is the great business that is to be dealt with at San Francisco."

utilities, and that $3,330,139 will accrue from the mill rate. Commissioner John Hodgson stated a mill on the present assessment will produce $52,063.

Requisition from the public school board this year was for $1,583,882, compared with $1,388,189 in 1944, an increase of $195,693, while the separate school board requisitions for $232,558, was against $202,273 last year, an increase of $30,285.

Estimates of expenditures for the five city-owned utilities amounting to $7,362,506 were approved on operation account, with the anticipated revenue placed at $6,964,807.

ESTIMATED PAYMENT

It is estimated that $1,211,423 will be paid by the utilities to the city through net surpluses, franchise, property and revenue taxes. This is the equivalent of approximately 20 mills. The amount to be paid in franchise and property taxes is estimated at $445,500, in revenue tax, $368,134, and in net surpluses, $397,789. In 1945 the amount realized from these sources was $1,226,481.

In addition to the revenue from taxes and surpluses, $1,280,000 will be set aside in reserve renewal accounts, which with the carry over in these accounts from 1944 of $2,328,137, will leave a total of $3,608,137 available for extensions and renovations of the utilities.

Council approved the expenditure of $1,759,210 for the different utility extensions this year, to leave a balance carried forward to 1946 of $1,848,927.

The expenditure of $258,700 was approved for the electric light and power department for various projects, and $405,000 for the power plant covering the completion of the new water treatment plant.

Estimates approved for the street railway department totalled $397,440. These include $215,000 for the purchase of 10 trolley coaches; $104,570 for the conversion of the Highlands street car route from street car to trolley bus operation; and $200,000 for the erection of a trolley coach depot to be located in the downtown section.

PROTEST RECEIVED

In connection with the trolley coach building a protest was received from the City of Edmonton Town Planning Commission against the use of a site in Rosedale where the commission points out is located in park area.

City Commissioner R. J. Gibb, when this communication was before the aldermen, intimated that the commissioners were examining alternative sites for this building, and suggested that the letter lay on the table until a further report has been brought to city council on the matter. Aldermen concurred in this suggestion.

A total of $368,070 was voted for the telephone department's extension and development program. Of this amount $116,635 will be spent on the purchase and installation of automatic equipment to provide 1,100 new lines in the different exchanges; $175,000 for the construction of an addition to the main exchange, and $54,000 approximately for extensions of the outside cable distribution system.

In the waterworks department approval was given for the expenditures of $130,000, of which $35,000 will be utilized for the construction of mains, services, etc., and $10,000 for alterations in supply mains to serve the new water treatment plant.

CONSTRUCTION COSTS

Construction estimates for the city engineer's department totalling $1,280,000 were approved. These expenditures will be met from accumulated reserves or from current revenue. Only $295,173, the amount chargeable against property for local improvements, will be capitalized.

In the power plant estimates an item of $7,500 for patrol services was questioned by Ald. H. D. Ainsley. He wished to know if there was still need for the employment of men to patrol the plant as a safeguard against sabotage.

Both commissioners, Mr. Gibb and Mr. Hodgson, said in their opinion danger of sabotage had passed, and suggested that the amount could be reduced. Council agreed to the suggestion and left it to the commissioners to determine the amount of the reduction. The commissioners were instructed to remove the item from the power plant estimates and place it in miscellaneous account.

On the motion of Ald. R. Winslow Hamilton the appropriation of $59,820 for grants was passed, but the individual grants proposed were referred to the finance committee for report and revision. Council ordered that requests for $500 made by the Edmonton Council on Education, and from the Mount Glen Home and School Association be added to the list sent to the committee.

A communication from the Taxpayers' Protective Association of Edmonton against expenditures of civic funds for the promotion of concerts at the public library was laid over pending a report from Ald. A. Bisset, K.C., the council's representative on the library board.

PENSION CHANGES

Council approved also of certain changes in the city's contribution to the employees' pension fund. One change will increase the city's minimum share of the pension plan to all employees having 25 to 30 years of service.

"The last time we talked about maintaining the peace," said Mr. Mackenzie. "This time we must be prepared to sacrifice and even fight to maintain it."

SEES LITTLE HOPE

As a returned soldier, Mr. Mackenzie said he left the meeting feeling there was little hope of creating a successful peace organization when neighbors could not

TY NEWYDD LLANYSTUMDWY, North Wales, March 27.—(CP).—Earl Lloyd George of Dwrfor, who as David Lloyd George was Britain's prime minister in the First Great War, died peacefully last night in his modest 400-year-old Welsh farm home. He was 82 last Jan. 17.

The King created him an Earl in the last New Year's honors list but this fierce champion of the common man never sat in the House of Lords.

His second wife, the former Miss Frances Stevenson, whom he married Oct. 23, 1943, was at his bedside when he died. She was his secretary for 30 years and the "Glamor Girl" of the Versailles Peace conference. She was 25 years his junior.

His first wife, Dame Margaret Lloyd George, whom he married in 1888 when he was an unknown solicitor of 25, died in 1941.

SMALL ROBUST MAN

Earl Lloyd George, a small but robust man, had shaken off serious illnesses many times before, but he suffered an attack of influenza in January from which he never rallied. Since Jan. 20 he had been in grave condition and under the care of a heart specialist.

His death leaves Vittorio Orlando of Italy as the only survivor of the famous "big four" of Woodrow Wilson, Georges Clemenceau, Lloyd George and Orlando at the Versailles conference where the peace treaty was written after Germany's defeat in 1918.

As the British elder statesman gradually grew weaker, the Countess remained with him as much as possible. So did his daughters, Lady Olwen Carey-Evans and Lady Megan Lloyd George, and his son, Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, minister of fuel and power in the Churchill cabinet. A second son, Maj. Richard Lloyd George, is in a sanatorium in Wales.

SERVED IN FIRST WAR

Both of Earl Lloyd George's sons served in the First Great War and emerged as majors.

Earl Lloyd George has held a seat in the House of Commons from Carnarvon for 34 years, alternately cheered and jeered by Britons as his unshakable beliefs found him their champion or their whipping boy.

Recently he had announced through his physician that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

years of service at pension age, to $40 instead of the present $35 monthly payment.

Other changes are that the city's share of the pension plan to all employees having less than 25 years' service at pension age, be the percentage of pension scheduled in the bylaw depending on the years of service; that the city's share of the plan to all employees having more than 30 years' service at retiring age be $40 monthly and increased by $1 monthly for each full year of service beyond 30.

It was agreed also that the city's share of the pension plan for those who are retired because of total permanent disability be on the basis of the years of service given at the date of retirement, as if the employee had reached pension age, and the seasonal employees be included in the plan and that the total number of months employed, divided by 12, be the years of service for pension purposes.

It is estimated that the annual cost of these increases will be approximately $48,000.

Briefs From Parliament

OTTAWA, March 27.—(AP).—Treasury bills now held by the Dominion from Saskatchewan total $96,055,996. Finance Minister Ilsley said in reply to a question by G. H. Castleden (CCF-Yorkton). The only demand for payment since 1930 has been that made this year for payment of a treasury bill for $16,468,852 given by the province as guarantee of the 1938 seed grain loan.

Details of assistance given apple growers from the 1941 crops to date were tabled by Agriculture Minister Gardiner on the request of H. H. Hatfield (PC-Victoria-Carlton). The statement reported $6,586,020 paid in Nova Scotia, $656,892 in British Columbia and $3,819 in Ontario. No payments were made in Quebec or New Brunswick.

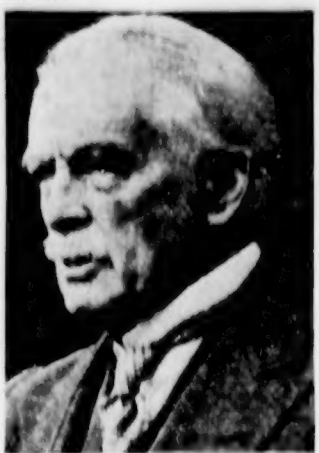

Payments by the Canadian Wheat Board on 1943 wheat crop participation certificates will be made as soon as possible after the crop has been disposed of. Trade Minister Mackinnon said in reply to J. A. Ross (PC-Souris). The amount per bushel could not be determined until the crop was sold.

Office space in the Merchants Bank Building at Regina is leased for the Unemployment Insurance Commission at $6,200 a year. Works Minister Fournier said in answer to questions by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre). Mr. Fournier said the rental for the entire ground floor was increased from $3,600 to $5,400 last year with the approval of the prices board rental administration.

John Blackmore, Social Credit house leader, who tried to have Finance Minister Ilsley orally answer questions regarding assistance to beet sugar producers, but Speaker J. A. Glen ruled he should place the questions on the order paper. Mr. Ilsley said Mr. Blackmore was not in order in reading a long list of questions. "These questions," he added, "are not such as should be asked on the orders of the day."

Orders have been placed with various Canadian farm implement companies for 3,000 farming units, the government reported in reply to D. G. Ross (PC-Souris). The machinery will be delivered this year and some is already on hand in company warehouses.

Veterans Minister Mackenzie said he "certainly" would look into a charge by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg N. Centre) that an envelope bearing the frank of

Asks Statement On Canuck Units Serving in Italy

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP).—Hon. R. B. Hanson (PC, York Sunbury) in the Commons yesterday asked if the department of national defence was prepared to make a statement on the Canadian forces in Italy.

Mr. Hanson said relatives of men in the Carleton and York Regiment from New Brunswick had written him asking for information about the position of the Canadians in Italy.

Douglas Abbott, parliamentary assistant to Defence Minister McNaughton, said an announcement on the Canadian forces would be made as soon as such was possible.

The deputy minister had contained among departmental press releases a printed leaflet "which is a piece of commercial advertising for one of the chartered banks of this country."

Mr. Knowles wanted to know "whether the facilities of the department and the franking privileges are thus being made available for advertising purposes to the chartered banks."

Suppose, for example, the income taxpayers' tax exemption for dependent children is, in round numbers, $400 and his children's allowance $300. If he applies for the latter amount and receives it, he would be allowed also a tax exemption of $100. In other words, he would gain nothing, but neither would he lose, except for the extra bother of making the application for the allowance.

Income tax payers might apply for the children's allowances and find their income tax exemption over and above the amount of children's allowance granted them.

How Much More?

This is the final week of the campaign to raise funds to support the work of the Red Cross. In city and district more has been subscribed than a year ago, and this province was among those which reached their objectives last week. But these facts do not mean that there is no need of further contributions. Quite the contrary.

The objectives set in this campaign were nominal. They indicated the amounts which would enable the organization to carry on as it did last year. But the demands now are more numerous, and they could not be more urgent. The progress of the war, the advance of the Allied armies, the liberation of over-run countries, all increase the field of opportunity and multiply the instances of need.

There is no hope whatever that the Red Cross can this year do as much as Canadians would like it to do to save lives and relieve distress. But the more money it is given with which to carry on, the nearer it can come to achieving that ideal. The amount that is subscribed beyond last year's figures will decide how much more can be done to meet the vastly greater challenge to our humanity.

The Crucial Time

There are wild rumors abroad about new restrictions to be imposed upon the Canadian people by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Some of these rumors have caused buying rushes in eastern cities and a good deal of merchandising confusion.

There is no need for either pessimistic speculation nor gloomy apprehension. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board has done an excellent and essential job up to the present time. Under its new policy of taking the public more completely into its confidence, we may expect it to do an even better job and to merit our full confidence.

If there are shortages of foodstuffs or consumer goods which require more stringent rationing, the public will be told about it and a satisfactory reason will be given for every step taken.

In the meantime, Canadians should remember that the closer we come to the war's end, the more necessary is price and buying control. The Wartime Prices and Trade Board was set up, not so much to control these things during wartime, as to establish an economically sound basis of transition from war conditions to peace conditions.

In other words, the duties and operations of the Board become more important rather than less important, as peace approaches. It cannot fulfill these duties and carry out these operations if Canadians are seized with the absurd and dangerous notion that the end of the war calls for the relaxation of economic controls.

This is the crucial time in the functions of the Board. It should have, more than ever, the close and friendly cooperation of the Canadian people.

Removing the Barriers

A Government bill now before the legislature proposes to nullify provincial enactments regarding mortgage actions, foreclosures, mechanics' liens and any other measures which the mortgage companies claim bar them from making building loans in Alberta under the Dominion Housing Act.

The effect of the bill is to put the loan companies on the spot. If these enactments have been the barriers to loaning in Alberta, the bill will remove them. In which case the Housing Act can become operative in this province as it is in the others.

Should building loans not be made available, despite the removal of these alleged hindrances, it will have to be assumed that the companies do not wish—for whatever reason—to do business in Alberta. In that event it will be in order to consider from what other sources money for housing projects can be secured.

The building of new houses is to be a cardinal feature of post-war activity all across the Dominion. Nothing is more certain than that. There is a shortage of living quarters in every considerable centre in Canada, and farmers are in better position than for many years to put up new buildings on their farms. Nowhere is this class of construction, in town and country, more needed than in Alberta.

As yet no building has been done in this province under the Dominion Housing Act.
For the sole reason that the mortgage companies were not willing to co-operate.
This stalemate cannot and should not be allowed to go on. One way or another loans for building will have to be made available here, as freely and on as good terms as elsewhere.

Veteran of Veterans

The death of Earl Lloyd George leaves only one—Orlando of Italy—of the Big Four who dominated the Versailles conference and directed the re-settlement of world affairs at the close of the First Great War. His has been a remarkable career. For 54 years he was a member of the British House of Commons, the storm-centre there for a good deal of the time. His social reform campaigns of forty years ago made British history, and the courage, vigor and tenacity he then disclosed marked him as the man of destiny to lead Britain through the great struggle of 1914-18. It seems unfortunate that he was not spared to see freedom emerge victorious from the second assault; but he lived long enough to know Hitlerism is doomed and that the collective security he fought for twenty-seven years ago is all but universally recognized to be the world's hope for future peace.

Machines Saved Men

Four Allied armies crossed the Rhine in the closing days of last week almost without casualties. They were able to do so because for a week the enemy positions on the eastern bank had been subjected to an air bombardment that broke all records in planes employed, explosives dropped and damage done to defence works and communications; and to artillery fire probably never equalled for sustained intensity. Shells and bombs were made to do what otherwise would have had to be done by men with rifles and bayonets. The enemy was cleared from the foreshore, and our forces passed across with little interference, none at all on some sectors.

For thus making machines save men the Allied High Command deserves praise and lasting gratitude, not less than for successfully negotiating the river barrier. It took patience to stall for weeks on the western bank while the necessary equipment was being accumulated and the preparations worked out in detail. Some courage was also required to run the risk of censure for holding back while the Russians were pushing the fight on the eastern front. But General Eisenhower and his aides had what it took to await the moment and to brave misunderstanding and criticism.

Neither is it to be forgotten that the guns and planes and the unimaginable quantities of ammunition they expended were the product of labor and skill. The men and women in the work-shops who produced these tools also deserve their share of the credit for this almost bloodless achievement. It is true they worked for wages, but they put a lot more into their jobs than so many hours per day. They made it possible for the commanders to transfer whole armies across the Rhine practically without loss; armies which stood on the far side ready for instant battle.

This remarkable feat is the full and complete justification for the Selective Service system in Canada and for work-or-fight measures in other Allied countries.
The thing could never have been done if man-power had not been centred on the vital task of producing war machinery, and with success. Such regimentation is not popular in democracies, but neither is war, and the one made the other necessary.
As a result tens of thousands of Allied soldiers crossed the Rhine unscathed who would else have been killed, drowned or wounded.

Food Notions Have Been Queer

Their Nutritious Values Have Had Their Ups and Downs

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

Did you know that tomatoes used to be called love apples? And did you know that up to sixty years ago it was commonly held that tomatoes caused cancer?

From South America, via Spain, they were introduced in England early in the 18th century, but were little used then because they were believed to be a prodisiac; hence the name love apples.

That there might be something in this theory was indicated about 10 years ago in one of the Virgin Islands. Until that time the native diet consisted chiefly of corn meal and fish, plus a little sugarcane.
When tomatoes were introduced for commercial cultivation, the natives took to eating them as a variation in their diet—and before long the birth rate began rising and continued on a higher level.

Today, of course, science would explain that this happened because of increased vitamin intake from the tomatoes.

Fashions and fancies in food and eating have changed constantly over the years. Today most of us eat an abundance of green vegetables and fruits in one form or another. But in 16th century England most vegetables were not regarded with favor, being believed to bring on melancholy. Fruit was suspected of causing "heat" and "dryness," i.e. fevers.

According to William Cobbett,
"Ireland's lazy root," the potato,
was introduced into England by Sir Walter Raleigh, "one of the greatest villains upon earth." Others ascribed the feat to John Hawkins and Francis Drake toward the end of the sixteenth century. In any event, nearly 200 years passed before the potato was widely cultivated as a food crop.

Did you know that tea, coffee and chocolate were all introduced about the same time? They all gained favor rapidly. In 1652 a Turkish merchant opened the first coffee shop in London, and within a few years the idea was copied all over the city.

One of these places introduced an "excellent West Indian drink called chocolate," which became fashionable as a nutritious and healthy drink.

Coming from China, the first tea was sold in England at prices ranging from $30 to $50 a pound, and Thomas Garway, a first London tea dealer, wrote: "In respect of its scarceness and dearness, it hath been only used as a regalia in high treatments and entertainments, and presents made thereof to princes and grandees."

In the year 1700 about 20,000 pounds were imported. A hundred years later, with prices drastically reduced, importations amounted to 20,000,000 pounds officially, with perhaps an equal quantity smuggled in via France.

In 1744 a Scottish gentleman named Duncan Forbes was inclined to blame this new drink for the current plight of Scotland in these words:

"But when the opening a Trade with the East Indies . . . brought the price of Tea . . . so low, that the meanest labouring Man could compass the Purchase of it; when the Connection which the Dealers in this country had with many Scotsmen in the Service of the Swedish Company at Gottenburg, introduced the common Use of That Drug amongst the lowest of the People; Companion of Tea came to be in the Possession of the very poorest Housewife, where formerly it had been a great Rarity, and thereby was at hand, to mix with Water and Brandy, or Rum; and when Tea and Punch became thus the Diet and Debauch of the Beer and Ale drinkers, the Effects were very suddenly and very severely felt."

In those days they were certainly generous in the use of the capital letters!

Now for a few cooking hints:

New Trade With Latin America

Economic Collaboration in Western Hemisphere Is Planned

By B. T. RICHARDSON

WASHINGTON.—The case for economic collaboration in the future which the United States placed before 19 Latin-American republics at the recent Mexico City conference crystallizes, in plainer terms than hitherto, several important aspects of American economic policy for the post-war. The United States has purchased $5,000,000,000 worth of raw materials in South America during the war, with the result that South America is more plentifully supplied with U.S. funds than ever before.

What changes will the post-war period bring? William L. Clayton, assistant secretary of state, told the Mexico City conference that the reduction of U.S. war production will not bring "any large cut in war procurement." In any case, the United States policy will be to stockpile materials, though this has not yet been passed by Congress, and care will be taken to avoid breaking the market for many raw materials by the presence of large U.S. defence stockpiles.

Mr. Clayton estimated that gold and dollar reserves outside the United States will amount to $20,000,000,000 after the war, giving the rest of the world about four times as much American purchasing power as it had after the last war. In addition, credits will be available through the U.S. export-import bank and through the new Bretton Woods bank. Mr.

Clayton gave figures to show that South America's credit was now excellent in the United States, due to a good record in meeting obligations to the export-import bank.
Since that bank was created in 1934, it has made loans of $263-000,000 in Latin America and only half of these are still outstanding without a single default.

"The United States government," Mr. Clayton told the Latin Americans, "is definitely committed to a post-war policy looking to a substantial expansion in world economy. . . . It is our intention to work actively for international agreements to remove all discriminations in trade, to reduce tariffs and other barriers to trade, and for the approval of the Bretton Woods proposal and the adoption of every other sound measure which will quicken and expand production and the international exchange of goods and services." He added: "We do not believe that we can have a high level of employment and prosperity in our country if a substantial part of the world is suffering from depression and we are quite sure that a satisfactory condition of employment and prosperity in the United States is a highly important factor in contributing to a like condition in other countries."

He said this policy would not rule out "international commodity agreements" in the case of some important primary commodities.

The old intention of the United States to underwrite prosperity in Latin America, which was a characteristic of the New Deal phase in Washington, has been replaced by a doctrine of economic interdependence. This is illustrated in the terms of an "Economic Charter of the Americas," which the United States submitted to the Mexico City conference and secured the support for it of all nations represented there. The ten points of this charter, in brief, were:

1. To direct joint policies towards

Visit to the Painter Picasso

By RUSSELL HILL

In The New York Herald Tribune

Every book store in Paris with any self-respect has at least several books of Pablo Picasso reproductions on display. The 65-year-old artist, who joined the Communist party soon after the liberation of Paris, is one of the few living painters who can be sure of going down in the history of art as a great master. Incidentally, he also possesses enough of his own paintings to make him one of the wealthiest men in France.

Van Gogh and others whose masterpieces now bring fabulous prices died in poverty. Picasso could sell any one of the scores of canvases in his studios for a small fortune.
But, like the proverbial painter in distress, he lives at the top of an ancient three-story building in the Latin Quarter of Paris.

A visit there can be a remarkable experience. It was for me. I turned into one of those extremely narrow streets that run off the quai on the left bank of the Seine opposite the Ile de la Cite. There was some difficulty in finding the house and I stopped to ask a Frenchwoman for directions. Before she could answer I heard a deep woman's voice behind me asking if I needed help. Turning around, I saw a short, stocky woman with a mannish haircut.

"Are you looking for something?"
she asked.

"I'm trying to find the house of Monsieur Picasso," I answered.
"It's right over there. You go through the gate, turn left and up the stairs to the top. I'm Gertrude Stein," she said.

"Very glad to meet you. I'm Russell Hill," I said, shaking hands, and after a few more words she walked away and I continued my search for Picasso.

The stairway was winding and dark. At the top was a closed door.
I rang and waited for minutes.
Eventually it was opened by a little man wearing a black beret, glasses and a black overcoat. He looked rather sour, and when I asked to see Picasso he said:

"Have you got an appointment?"
I hadn't, but he finally let me come in and asked me to wait in the studio, which, like most places in Paris, was completely unheated. It contained 10 or 20 Picassos and one Matisse.

After five minutes the little man came back and told me "Monsieur Picasso is very busy. Many people come to see him. He cannot see you today. He cannot see you tomorrow, either. Please ring up on Friday."

It took nearly a week to arrange to see Picasso. When I came back the little man in the black beret was friendlier. He took me through the first studio, through another one filled with sculpture and up a flight of stairs into a room where Picasso paints. We sat down to wait for him.

This studio, which was cold like the others, contains a large coal stove, but it wasn't lit. All around were Picasso paintings, their bright colors still fresh. There may have been 30 or 40 on view and an equal number of canvases with their faces to the wall in one corner.

"He painted all these during the occupation and three times more," said the little man. "You see there wasn't anything else for him to do so he painted."

I was looking at the pictures, which were still lifes or studies of people. There was certainly nothing suggesting the class struggle or the Popular Front. Apparently he kept his art and his politics in separate compartments.

"Cela ne vous dit rien?" ("That conveys nothing to you?") asked the little man, and without waiting for an answer continued: "You have to look at them for a long time. At first you see nothing, but after a while you like them, and then you don't like anything else any more, which is too bad because there are only a small number of these and there are many other."
He shrugged his shoulders, indicating that life was like that.

On the floor, leaning against a chair, was a blue Picasso that is a half-length portrait of a woman, painted almost entirely in blues.
Next to it stood a smaller green Roussseau. It was the only non-Picasso in the room, and, of course, one noticed it immediately.

The largest painting was one of what seemed to be a naked woman lying on a sofa. One was not sure at first that it was a woman because in place of the head there was what looked like a large wine goblet.

Her arms, which were not shaped like arms at all, were bent up with what would have been the hands resting behind what should have been the head. At the other end were two obvious feet, one with five long straight toes, the other with five great round ones. In between was a pattern of curves and lines.
Another woman whose shape was closer to the normal human stood by the couch.

At the risk of appearing very ignorant, I asked, "What does that represent?"

He said, "Oh, that's just a woman lying down and her friend has come to visit and talk with her.
She feels very much at ease, so she is naked."

After that the picture actually did seem much clearer.

"I suppose lots of people are trying to buy these pictures," I ventured.

"Oh, yes, certainly. There are many people."

"Doesn't he sell them?" I persisted.

"Sometimes he sells one," the little man said vaguely.

In one corner of the room a wooden ladder was leaning up against the wall. From where we sat one could not see the top, and for some reason I kept expecting that when Picasso came he would come down that ladder. When he actually did come in, he walked through the door.

He was like the woman in the blue painting; that is, he was all in light blues except for his bedroom slippers, which were various colors. He was small and thin, with twinkling eyes and a face that was both vivacious and kindly.

He obviously did not want to talk about himself. He explained that he was not painting very much right now because the studio was so cold and, besides, there were so many people who wanted to see him.
There had been a report that he was being commissioned in the French Army, but he laughed at this and gave a rather vague answer. After a few minutes he excused himself, saying that he had to see some people.

Out in the fresh, moist air of Paris I blinked my eyes to make sure that I was awake. It was like coming out of some strange dream world.

Fancy Liquor Prices

From The London Express

Whisky, brandy and wines from the cellars of Scotland were sold for tens of thousands of pounds in London during the first half of one of the war's biggest liquor sales.

They came from the stocks of the late Mr. John Grant, Glasgow wine importer.

The catalogue covered 15 pages.
Four fine sherry and port —realized £12,550. One butt of Molinos sherry reached £1,500, which works out at £3 10s a bottle after bondage has been paid.

Dealers only were allowed to buy.

A dozen Johnny Walker Black Label reached £32 10s (14 7s 6d each). Vat 69 and Haig Gold Label fetched £47 a dozen (£3 16s 4d).
Gordon's gin sold for £41 a dozen bottles (£3 8s 4d).

The sale went on right through lunch hour. Some dealers produced chicken sandwiches which would have gone well with the Charles Heidsieck Extra Dry, Vintage 1928 champagne for which they bid £60 a dozen magnums.

But there was no wine on view.
The buyers had to wait half a mile to the offices of the auc-tioneers before they could have a "taster's sip."

Six magnums of Veuve Clicquot,
Dry England, vintage 1929, fetched £10 5s a bottle.

"The prices are very high today," said Mrs. Joy Lipton, the only woman bidding, representing a firm of dealers. "Some of them are ridiculous."

But the man who actually drinks these opulent drinks will find them higher still.

By brooding on this dark legend,

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

WELL, the robins checked in officially yesterday, and doubtless some already have made preliminary surveys, hopeful that there may have been an improvement in the general housing situation in Edmonton, since they departed for the sunny south last fall.

And although hockey still is in playoff throes, it will soon be nudged off the sport stage by golf, baseball, football, tennis and other summer attractions. Golfers have not been an uncommon sight on city links for some days now and many vacant lots have their full quota of enthusiastic young ball addicts these evenings.

And by the way, this is the day that wedding bells are to ring for Ken McAuley and Millie Warwick. Ken's labors as goalie for New York Rangers are over for the season and he and team-mate Grant Warwick arrived in Regina last week. Millie, the bride-to-be, is a former member of the All-American pro girls softball circuit. Ken and "the Missus" will arrive in Edmonton shortly.

Commenting in his column in the Regina Leader-Post regarding the Moose Jaw - Edmonton junior series, Dave Dryburgh says: "They (Canucks) didn't knock over any crumples in the robust Edmonton Canadians who would stack up as a pretty fair club in western eliminations most any year."

Final hockey for the season here is the pee-wee playoff at the Arena tonight between Highland (CAC) and Fairways (EAC). Figure skating exhibitions by members of the Glenora Skating Club are added feature for the evening.

Playoff Starts Thursday

Moose Jaw Arena 'Sold Out' For Opener of West Series

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 27.—(CP)—Moose Jaw was "hockey mad" last night, three nights before the opening of the western Canada junior hockey finals between Moose Jaw Canucks and Winnipeg Monarchs. The 3,000 reserve seats for the first game of the best-of-seven series here Thursday night were sold out a few hours after the arena office opened.

Another 750 rush seats will go on sale before game-time.

Meanwhile Canucks announced efforts to strengthen their injury-riddled squad have met with success. Gerry Couture, University of Saskatchewan junior star, will play either defence or forward for the first two games.

Couture will be the third replacement since Canucks entered the playoffs. Ed Lister, defenceman Paddy Ryan of Regina Commandos and centre Douglas Toole of Notre Dame Hounds were added to replace defenceman Jackie Miller and forward Al Swaine.

Pee-Wees Play City Title Game At Arena Tonight

The Highlands, Canadian Athletic Club versus Fairways, Edmonton Athletic Club pee-wee city championship tonight will be the final hockey game at the arena this season. Starting time is 8:30 o'clock.

Figure skating exhibitions between periods will be given by Barbara Park, Donna Knight, Margot Hart, and Zena English, members of the Glenora Skating Club.

Cecil (Tiger) Goldstick and Herb Shives have been named referees for the game.

Following are the lineups: Fairways—Jack Morrison, Ron Matthews, Raeburn Glen, Ron Schofield, Morley Hinchberger, Bill Howson, Fred Morie, Doug Kilburn, Fred Whiting, Ben Macdonald, Danny Johnson, Frank Nieder.

Highlands — Heron, Dunsworth, Wallbank, McNiel, Field, Hyde, Duckworth, Cruikshank, Diakur.

LaMotta Kayos "Sugar" Costner

CHICAGO, March 27.—(AP)—Jake LaMotta, New York middleweight, last night further exploded the knockout prowess of George (Sugar) Costner, Cincinnati, Ohio, by knocking Costner out in the sixth round of a scheduled 10-rounder in the Chicago stadium.

The battle was witnessed by 11,115 spectators who paid $4.45 to see the spectacular finish. Previous to being knocked out by Ray (Sugar) Robinson of New York a month ago, Costner had won 22 out of 24 fights by knockouts. LaMotta weighed 157½ and Costner 151½.

CWAC Rifle Club Captures Shoot

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—CWAC rifle club in London shot their way to victory over a rifle team representing the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, and then went on to vanquish a picked team from the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

High scorers in the CWAC team included L-Cpl. Ida Skinner, Winnipeg.

Maj. Mary Morrison of Delta, Alta., officer commanding No. 12 Administrative Unit, is the crack shot of the Ottawa CWAC rifle team.

MIDGET HOCKEY CHAMPIONS OF ALBERTA—Maple Leaf Athletic Club won the midget hockey title for the province of Alberta by defeating Calgary Buffaloes in a two-game total-goal series here during the week-end by a score of 14-11. Coached by Bob Haxby, the Maple Leafs, winners of the seven team Edmonton midget league, eliminated Lacombe in the northern Alberta playoff in order to qualify for the provincial final against the south Alberta champions. In the top row above (from the left), are:

Four Top Men For Saturday's Wrestling Card

Ted Christy, mat man from Hollywood and Cliff Thiede are the headliners for Saturday night's wrestling show at the Empire Theatre, the opening bout of which is scheduled to start at 8:30.

Christy, a top showman in the mat game, has appeared in several matches in Edmonton and the fans tabbed him pronto, as the villain of the evening. He'll no doubt be in that role again Saturday night, for Thiede, former University of Southern California athlete has been popular with wrestling customers in all his bouts. Thiede has been matched against some of the best in the business.

Both Chief Thunderbird, Saanich Indian from Vancouver Island, and Lee Grable have been popular in Edmonton, and Thunderbird probably has been the most colorful grappler to appear here this season. The Grable-Thunderbird affair looks like an even-Stephen proposition and it should prove one of the banner attractions of the year.

Names of the men taking part in the preliminaries will be announced in a day or two.

Vic High Cagers Go South Thursday

Victoria High School's basketball team, one of the strongest local school teams in Edmonton in a number of years, leave here Thursday for Carleton Place where they will play in the Carleton high school for the Alberta inter-scholastic "A" basketball championship. The series will be a best of three playoff with the first game set for Saturday night. Second will be Monday and third, if necessary, Tuesday.

Making the trip will be nine players and the coach, Walter Stewart. Players going are: Bill Price, Jim Macrae, John Boer, John Harvie, Gordon McCormack, Alie Lasowsky, Peter Shipka, Tom Mayson, Steve Mendryk.

Memorial Cup Survivors

Eight teams today remained in contention for the Memorial Cup and Canadian junior hockey championship, six in Eastern Canada, two in Western Canada. The survivors:

Girls' Basketball

Second game in the best-of-three final for the City Girls' Basketball League championship between Army and Navy Pats and YWCA. Army will be played at the YWCA gym tonight commencing at 8 o'clock. The Pats won the first game last Saturday and will be out to take the series two straight while the Aces will be making a desperate effort to prolong the playoff.

Quebecers Plan Tour West

Martineau Thinks His Aces Will Help Promote Unity

QUEBEC, March 27.—(CP)—Sport "is the perfect field" for promoting national unity in Canada because "all sportsmen speak the same language," says Gerry Martineau of Quebec, who has been seeking to promote unity for 10 years and thinks he has found a way to do it by means of his Quebec Aces.

To Martineau, his Allen cup-holding aces are more than a hockey team; they are "ambassadors" between the two main racial groups in Canada. A proposed good-will tour of Western Canada by the Aces, he says, is merely an extension of a plan he has been working on for years and which he feels now is beginning to bear fruits.

"We had rather a cosmopolitan team," he says, "with not only French and English speaking players but also men from the east and from the west. Some of those boys came down here with a great deal of suspicion, but we treated them the way we would like to see our own children treated and now they like it here."

"Why, only last Saturday," he added laughingly, "we had all the boys, whether they be Buddhists or sun worshippers, down at the famous shrine at Ste. Anne de Bellevue. I guess it was a good idea because the gang was rewarded with an 11-2 victory over Montreal Royals Sunday."

Aces now are becoming quite famous for the reception they give visiting teams—and visiting newspapers.

When Port Arthur Shipbuilders came here for the Allan Cup finals last season, they were figuratively given the keys of the city. Mayor Lucien Borne, an ardent fan, provided them with the traditional horse-drawn "caleches" for a sight-seeing tour, and city and provincial officials were on hand at the good-will banquet.

EAC Juveniles Play Lethbridge

Edmonton Athletic Club juveniles, who carry Edmonton's hopes for a third provincial hockey championship, are leaving here Thursday noon for Lethbridge where they will meet the Lethbridge Native Sons for the Alberta juvenile hockey title.

A total of 16 are expected to make the trip, including coach John Molyneux and manager Jack Price. Players going are: Bill Stevenson, Clem Kerr, Elwood Shell, John Harvie, John Singleton, Jack Meldrum, Harry Jeske, John Klymak, Gordon Grierson, Norman Grant, Jim Milne, Clarence Goltz, Dave Butler.

The best of three final opens at the south city on Friday. Second game will be played Saturday and a third, if necessary, will be staged on Monday.

NHL Semi-Final Is Continuation Of Old Rivalry

TORONTO, March 27.—(CP)—The Stanley Cup semi-final series between Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins may be a bit of a surprise to National Hockey League fans but to old-timers like managers Art Ross and Jack Adams it's just continuation of rivalry between the oldest American clubs in the league.

Boston and Detroit both have won the Stanley Cup three times. Twice they have met in the series' finals in four straight games, and in 1943 when Detroit won in four straight. In the intervening year they met in a semi-final series which Detroit won handily, and this year for the fourth successive time they meet—in a semi-final.

For many a year, Ross and Adams have sat across from each other in the sports arena and beside each other at NHL governors' discussions.

Exactly 40 seasons ago, Bruins' manager stepped out with Westmount (Montreal) Athletic Association intermediate team, "Jolly Jack" Adams made his pro debut in the war season of 1917-18, playing for Toronto Arenas in a game against Canadiens at Montreal.

Ross' background is that of player, manager, coach and referee. He is left to muse on what he would do to the rest of the American League if he still could call on Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr, Dom DiMaggio, Johnny Pesky, Jim Tabor, Frankie Pytlak, Hal Wagner, Roy Partee and a pitching corps of Ted Hugheson, Mickey Harris, Bill Tolan, Earl Johnson, Charlie Wagner, Joe Dobson and Mace Brown.

Last summer was especially cruel for the Beantowners. When the race reached its hottest peak, they were short of Hugheson, an 18-5 winner; Doerr, who carried the club's power attack; infielder Tabor and catcher Wagner and Partee. Boston slipped out of the race, finished fourth.

The Red Sox scurried about for replacements. Most of these came from the minor leagues. No one knows what to expect in 1945.

St. Mike's Takes Two-Game Lead

TORONTO, March 27.—(CP)—St. Michael's Majors last night went two up in their best of five series with Porcupine Composites for the Ontario junior hockey championship when they subdued the inexperienced but stubborn nothings 8-6 in the second game.

Porcupine went ahead on Hannigan's goal in the first frame. Jim Thomson tied it in the second. He gave St. Mike's a 2-1 lead less than a half minute later and Bob Paul counted their third goal. Curik notched Composites second goal before the period ended.

McCormack opened scoring for St. Mike's in the final frame but goals by Yorkie and Curik tied it 4-4. Ted Sloan and Leo Gravelle put the Majors two up a few minutes later. Smith cut the lead but six seconds later Costello notched his second counter. Borilka for Composites and Bob Paul for the Majors added tallies before the game ended.

Physician Helps Jersey Joe Buzas Return To Majors

By JACK HAND

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., March 27.—(AP)—Jersey Joe Buzas, signed off the Bucknell Campus four years ago, is the outstanding rookie in the New York Yankee camp today although the medics wrote finish to his baseball career a year ago when he aggravated a shoulder injury in a baseline collision.

Treatment by a Brooklyn physician brought Buzas' right shoulder back into playing condition and enabled him to spark the Newark infield and hit .297 for the 1944 Bears.

"There is nothing the matter with my arm," said Buzas, whose only fault to date has been over-anxiety to prove his case with manager Joe McCarthy. "It's too early to cut loose."

Buzas' standing depends on 'he status of shortstop Frank Crosetti, written off by Col. Larry MacPhail as a holdout. If Crosetti signs, Buzas will be given a chance at first, at least until veteran Nick Etten shows up.

The freshman infielder is a refreshing type of youth who calls his "best girl" every night back home in Alpha, N.J. He was rejected for military duty because of an ear ailment.

His Club Hit Hardest

PLEASANTVILLE, N. J., March 27.—Every night when Joe Cronin goes to bed he ponders the unkind trick fortune played him.

When Thomas Austin Yawkey bought the Red Sox 10 years ago, he spent a few millions to rebuild, told Joe to aim for a pennant. And just when the Bostonians developed into a challenger to Yankee supremacy, along came the war to strip the team of its brightest boys. Fenway Park from the outset has been hit hardest of all.

The Soxos have a tremendous club, but it is in the service. Joe is left to muse on what he would do to the rest of the American League if he still could call on Ted Williams, Bobby Doerr, Dom DiMaggio, Johnny Pesky, Jim Tabor, Frankie Pytlak, Hal Wagner, Roy Partee and a pitching corps of Ted Hugheson, Mickey Harris, Bill Tolan, Earl Johnson, Charlie Wagner, Joe Dobson and Mace Brown.

FLAG FEVER SUBSIDES

There is no championship tang at Pleasantville.

Cronin has plenty of pitchers from whom to select, but would gladly give any five to get Hugheson back.

Holdovers, with their records, are: Joe Bowman (12-8), Mike Ryba (12-7), Yank Terry (6-10), Emmett O'Neill (6-11), Rex Cecil (4-5), Clem Dreisewitz (2-4), Clem Hausman (4-7), Oscar Judd (1-1), George Woods (4-8), and Red Barker, who will serve in relief job.

The newcomer list features Jim Wilson, who won 19 and lost 8 for Louisville, followed by Joe Wood, Jr., Bill Clark and Vic Johnson.

The infield will be 50 per cent. brand new. Ben Steiner inherits the gigantic job of replacing Doerr at second. Nick Polly succeeds Tabor at third. Both are promoted from the Boston proving grounds in Louisville. George Metkovich will be back at first, Skeets Newsome at short, Eddie Lake, Jackie Tobin and Jim Bucher stand in reserve.

Doug Bentley Counts Three For Winners

SASKATOON, Sask., March 27.—(CP)—Laura Beavers defeated Canmore Briquetters 7-5 here Monday night to deadlock the best-of-five series for the western Canada intermediate hockey championship at a game each.

Canmore won the first game Saturday night 9-5. The third will be played here Wednesday night.

The game was a scrappy affair throughout with 18 minor and major penalties called. The Beavers scored the tying and winning goals while the Albertans were short handed.

Doug Bentley, former Chicago Black Hawk star, bagged Laura's winning goal late in the second period and Paul Ballendine supplied the clincher with the only goal in the third.

Canmore led 2-1 at the end of the first period but was outscored 5-3 in the middle session.

Bentley led the Laura attack with three counters while Ballendine added a pair, Leo Kelsey and Squere Allen one each for the Beavers.

Cronin Can Always Dream Of Bosox in Armed Forces

POWER OF THE POKE

Syrington is the outfield which features Bob Johnson in left and Pete Fox in right. Fox hit .315 last year. Johnson belted a robust .324, missed the league title by a fraction. On his first time at bat this spring he belted a mean line drive. Had he hit it on closing day last fall Johnson would have snatched the batting championship from Lou Boudreau.

Centre field will be contested by Leon Culerson and Tom McBride of last year's club and Lloyd Christopher, up from Seattle. Steve Barash and Johnny Lazor tolls on his Alabama farm.

With his entire catching staff inducted into the service, Cronin was forced to promote Fred Walters and Bob Garbark from Louisville. Billy Holm, drafted from Los Angeles, has forsaken baseball.

Joe Cronin hesitates to guess what he can do with this roster. But he has one consolation.

If things get too tough he can always stare at that ceiling and dream pleasantly of the great team he has in the armed forces.

Cochrane Offers Robinson First Shot At Crown

SUMMIT, N.J., March 27.—Freddie Cochrane's ma and pa were sitting on a wooden bench, watching, when he walked into his training quarters in the Summit hills. Red's ma is a pleasant lady with a shock of gray hair. His pa is a crimp-stacked Irishman with a pipe stuck between his teeth. Ma has never seen him fight, doesn't really approve of fighting, yet is directly responsible for her son's rise to the welterweight championship.

When Freddie was six years old his pop brought him home a pair of junior-sized boxing gloves. This led to an era of blackened eyes and bruised lips. Ma Cochrane admits she meant to fling those gloves into the kitchen stove if she ever got the chance.

It was over her protests that Freddie later turned professional. She protested even more vigorously when the Elizabeth redhead turned out to be a run-of-the-mill fighter. Finally came the day when Freddie had suffered his 25th defeat. Ma reckoned it was time to lay down the law.

She took him to the parlor and told him he had to stop this nonsense. Either quit fighting or buckle down and do a respectable job of it. She was sick and tired of having a good Irish name kicked around.

Ma Cochrane says Freddie did not surprise her by acquiring the welter weight, even though Fritz Zivic was an odds-on favorite. She knows an Irishman is tough to budge once he sets his mind on something.

Nor was it a surprise to manager Willie Glitzenberg. Willie told his charge Zivic was a rough customer who delighted in bullying opponents.

In the opening round in the Newark ball park, July 29, 1941, Zivic grabbed Red around the neck to pull him in close. When he did this, Cochrane gave Fritz the top of his skull, smack in the face. From that moment on Freddie was the master, returning Mickey Walker's old title to New Jersey, from where it had been absent for 19 years.

Following more than two years of service in the Navy, much of it in the Pacific, Cochrane has been returned to civilian life only to find that Ray Robinson is still considered the top welterweight in the business. Everyone seems to take it for granted that Sugar Robinson will relieve Freddie of his title as soon as the same ring.

This is not nice news to come home to, confesses the ex-chief specialist, and he proposes to silence such talk in the only manner it can be done. The first championship fight is reserved for the lithe Harlem Negro.

When such a bout is scheduled you will find Robinson the choice at 1-to-4 or 1-to-5. If you spend a few hours with Cochrane here in Summit, however, you will come to suspect that Freddie the Red may do to Robinson what he did to Zivic that summer night in 1941.

"I can beat Robinson because he doesn't scare me," says Cochrane, looking you squarely in the eye. "He whips a lot of fellows because he's got them quivering before they get in the ring."

And while Cochrane would raise an awful fuss if Freddie came home without that title.

It makes her mad just to think of a good Irish name being kicked around.

NEW YORK, March 27.—(BUP)—Steve Donoghue, most famous jockey in British racing history, died last Friday in London at the age of 60. His riding triumphs, that included a record achievement of six victories in the English Derby, made him as well known through the turf conscious British Commonwealth of Nations as Babe Ruth or Jack Dempsey in the United States.

The little Irishman from Lancashire rode from 1903 to 1937. It is estimated that he earned nearly $900,000 during his long career. Just before the First World War, the German Kaiser offered him $30,000 a year to ride for him. Donoghue scornfully rejected the offer, and he received approximately $50,000 for riding Pommern to victory in the English Derby during the war.

American turf fans will remember Donoghue because of his defeat in the great international match-race between Zev and Papyrus at Belmont Park in the fall of 1923. Papyrus, owned by the British sportsman Ben Irish, had won the English Derby of 1923 with Donoghue in the saddle. Zev, ridden by Harry F. Sinclair's Rancocas, had won the Kentucky Derby that year with Earle Sande "up." The match race brought together the outstanding three-year-olds and the outstanding riders of two nations.

The track at Belmont was sloppy for the race. American trainers and railbirds were amazed when it was announced that Papyrus would run in shoes with smooth bar plates, instead of using special mud cleats. They were even more surprised at the visiting jockey's "tintype" style of riding—with long stirrups and long reins.

Zev beat the British horse with ease, finishing the one and a half-mile race so far ahead that Sande had to pull up his mount and wait for Papyrus and Donoghue to catch up with them, so that they could ride back to the winner's circle together. Zev's victory was so complete that spectators were convinced the American three-year-old could have beaten Papyrus on any track and at any time.

Donoghue, of typical jockey stature—four feet 11 inches by 106 pounds, had unusually strong arms and shoulders. He was admired as a great "natural" rider. And he rode all over the world—in most European countries, and in India, New Zealand, Australia, British West Indies, etc.

His English Derby triumphs were: Pommern in 1915; Gay Crusader, 1917; Humourist, 1921; Captain Cuttle, 1922; Papyrus, 1923 and Manna in 1925. His sixth Derby triumph on Manna broke a record that had been established by Fred Richer, the track wizard who nearly 40 years before had ridden off five Derby wins.

He suffered many broken bones and other injuries during his career. Also financial reverses. Despite his great earnings, he was declared bankrupt in 1928; but he made a come-back later. His son, Pat, also became a jockey but never approached father Steve's success. Which was understandable, because as far as Great Britain is concerned the man never lived who could ride a race horse like Steve Donoghue.

Danny Webb Beats RN Petty Officer

LONDON, March 27.—(CP-Cable)—Danny Webb, Montreal negro boxer and Canadian Army corporal, took an eight-round decision from Ben Duffy, one of Britain's best featherweights, in the main bout at suburban Stoke Newington last night. Webb weighed 127½, 2½ pounds lighter than Duffy, a Royal Navy petty officer.

Both boxers boast victories over Jackie Patterson of Glasgow, world flyweight champion, in non-title bouts.

In one of the preliminaries last night, Tony Russell, Winnipeg middleweight, was knocked out in the first round by Dave Goodwin of Nottingham.

CANADIAN SPORTSHOTS

TORONTO, March 27.—(CP)—The doubling Thomases who said that Quebec Aces would not get the chance to defend the Allan Cup they won last year, because Montreal Royals would eliminate them in the Quebec senior playoffs, are beginning to wonder if the Aces' proposed trip across Canada may not turn into a pseudo-playdown for the Dominion title after all. When CAHA proxy Frank Sargent announced cancellation of the Allan Cup this year, Aces suggested that the Cup revert to its original challenge basis.

Gerry Martineau, president of the Aces, has said that the trip west is almost a certainty. And if the Aces cop the next game of the Quebec series, they will certainly fall under the "qualified" classification. Sargent's only objection to the challenge series was that there may be clubs in the series that would be "unqualified to represent their districts."

Skeptics were beginning to say that Aces would be one of those clubs, for the Aces were outplayed by Royals through the season and started the final series with the Montreal club one game down. But the week-end's 11-2 pasting given the Carlin club is mute evidence that Aces are as powerful as they were last spring when they swept to the Dominion title without trouble.

There might still be a bit of a fly in the ointment so far as the Aces' western trip goes. It seems that the Quebec Hockey Association has ordered the winner of the QSHL series to meet the winner of the interprovincial league title.

Aces are set to leave on their jaunt April 10 which doesn't leave much time for a series in their home province. But what will come of Aces' western trip and the chance that the CAHA may finally sanction a challenge series, remains to be seen.

First Quebec has to win the fourth game against Royals. In hockey, even a three-to-one game lead is not a sure thing.

TITLE TRAIL
Newcomers to senior basketball ranks, the Georgians of Montreal won another round in the Dominion playoffs this past weekend. They topped the ever-powerful Ottawa Senators in a total-point series and now meet Halifax YMCA in the Eastern Canada semi-finals. The Sir George Williams college basketball team added another feather to their cap last week.

Playing in a Dadds trophy game for the first time, they topped their college rivals, McGill University. The Dadds trophy is an annual affair played between McGill and the city of Montreal senior champions.

Bob Quinn Sees Little Hope For Big Leaguers in Services

WASHINGTON, March 26.—(AP)—Bob Quinn, Boston's baseball patriarch who is embarking on a new career as farm system supervisor for the Boston Braves at the age of 75, sees little hope for big league players now in service ever regaining their pre-war form.

"I hope every one of them can do it," said Quinn at the daily press conference at the club's Georgetown University training camp, "but I don't think they can. One year, maybe, but three, four and even five years will have developed a new set of muscles that are necessary for war but lack the skillful co-ordination so vital for a big leaguer."

The case of pitcher Tom Earley, honorably discharged from the navy and now back with the Braves, came up for discussion. Earley had been taking his first hard workout and it was obvious his shoulder and back muscles had tightened up so much he was forced to "shot put" the ball.

"Tom is only 27 and he ought to be able to come around," the executive observed. "But he's a good example. He hasn't thrown a ball for over a year and you can see what happens."

Manager Bob Coleman of the Braves agreed with Quinn. "You can't draw any comparison between the last war and this one," Coleman said. "Most of the players went in around May or June of 1918 and were back in time for the 1919 season. Now most of them have been out for an average of three years and it isn't over yet."

BOSTON, March 27.—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings rested Monday in preparation for tonight's fourth meeting with Boston Bruins in the Stanley Cup semi-finals and an effort to even the series at two games each.

Bruins lead the eight point series 4-2 on victories in the first two contests at Detroit.

Steps Proposed To Curb Powers Of Tall Cagers

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, March 27.—(BUP)—Pending "leg" isolation against the long-limbed lads of basketball had a lot of the balcony brigade up in arms today for the same reason that the bleacherites of baseball would howl if steps were taken to reduce home runs in the diamond sport.

Basketball fans are like the fanatics in baseball, football and other team sports. They pay their money to see action and they are convinced that the tall fellows with the rangy reach are there to provide it for them.

We understand that most of the coaching brethren of the "board-burners" sport are in favor of curbing the powers of the "ladder-ladders," but it seems that the bulk of the outcry has been from the one which haven't tall men on their squads.

The sentiment against them apparently reached its peak during the past week and a sky-high-guy named George Mikan appears to be the culprit. When Mikan, who stands six feet, nine inches tall in his shower bath, made 33 points for De Paul to set a new college record, the coaches decided to cut all the big fellows down to size.

KEANEY NOT IRRITATED
Among the bickers, however, was likeable Frank Keane, whose "poor little boys" from poor little Rhode Island, should have more reason than anyone else to howl about Mikan and the other giants. It was against comparatively tiny team that Mikan made his 33 points. Breaking eight scoring records in one night. But is Keaney irritated about it? Not one bit.

"That big boy Mikan is good," he told his brother coaches at their annual meeting in the hotel Bellevue Sunday. "And what a shot maker he is. Some day I'll have a good man myself and then I'll want to be able to use him."

The De Paul coach, Ray Meyer, who has more reason to defend tall players, said that the whole thing made no sense to him.

NOT PLAYERS FAULT
"If they want to penalize tall players for their height, why don't they penalize shorter players for their speed," he said. "Now take Mikan, for example. It's not his fault that he's tall—that he stretches up to six foot, nine. Why should they try to take the game away from fellows like him? Basketball has started to play, he was a spindly-legged beanpole of a boy."

"Now because the game has developed him physically and given him proportion and co-ordination, he's an excellent, alert athlete." It seems to us that there is a lot in what they say. Height, because it often is accompanied by lack of balance could in many ways be as great a physical handicap as diminutiveness or extreme obesity. There are few sports except basketball in which the six foot, six inches and above have excelled.

The defensive value of the big men already has been reduced through rules against "goal tenders" who made a practice of halting out opposing shots. Now, it appears that

Max Carey Happy Being President Of Girls' League

WINNIPEG, March 27.—(CP)—Max Carey, former National league baseball star and president of the American girls' professional softball league, said in an interview here Monday he was happier in his present job than at any time during his diamond career with Pittsburgh Pirates and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Visiting the city to organize a scouting system and appoint district commissioners for his league, Carey said he liked girls softball better than the sport he was connected with for 25 years. "It's faster and much superior," he said.

Carey led the National league in base stealing in 10 different seasons and his total to 732 thefts was surpassed by only Ty Cobb with 952 and Eddie Collins with 744.

Carey said the girls in his league are every bit as skillful as the Joe Gordons and Marty Marions of the major leagues.

Training Camp Notes

NEW YORK, March 27.—(AP)—One of the first big league baseball clubs to give a line on their season's starting pitcher, Chicago Cubs likely will use Claude Passeau on opening day, now less than a month away.

Boston Red Sox—Manager Joe Cronin is working hard to smooth out infield play of Jack Tobin, brother of Braves' Jim Tobin, and Ben Steiner.

Brooklyn Dodgers—Manager Leo Durocher, who plans to play second base, muffed the first chance he got in Sunday's game against Montreal, allowing two men to score.

Cleveland Indians—Allie Reynolds, fast-ball twirler, said his arm felt fine after pitching batting practice.

Boston Braves—Garden Gillenwater, outfielder up from St. Paul, batted Washington's Dutch Leonard for triple and double as Braves beat Senators.

St. Louis Cardinals—Infielder George Fallon reported as team prepared to hold first workout at Sportsman's Park, having shifted from flooded Cairo, Ill., field.

New York Yankees—Outfielders Paul Waner and Russ Derry along with catcher Mike Garbar reported at Atlantic City camp.

Pittsburgh Pirates—Arranged to play exhibition game with Muncie, Ind., city team Wednesday.

St. Louis Browns—Outfielder Mike Kreevich signed contract while catcher Myron Hayworth, pitcher Weldon West and outfielder Gene Moore agreed to terms.

$25 Worth of Trees Prize Offered

Mow the Lawn and Take Your Chance

In Sylvan Drive to Perk Up Town

SYLVAN LAKE: Billed as one of the rarest beauty spots in Alberta, credited to the kindness of nature in landscaping such a setting and counted as a privilege and a pleasure to live in such a lovely spot, the Sylvan Lake district this week saw its collective chest bulging out as the result of the Chamber of Commerce's decision to institute a beautifying campaign.

According to a chamber notice, the present situation is the work of earlier residents, many of whom are still with us and working to this end. To keep up a good job, the chamber has divided the village into four zones, and has offered as prizes for the first and second best kept zones, $25 and $15 worth of trees respectively.

A committee on village improvements has appealed to Sylvanites for all assistance and help possible. Neatness and "irriminuity" in gardens, lawns, front and back yards are all emphasized.

In turn, the committee has promised to help as much as it can in planting trees on street fronts.

Cross, minister of health, has granted that the territory represented by these taxpayers be added to the present Hanna Municipal Hospital District. The petitioners were signed by more than 65 per cent of the ratepayers, who requested that the area in which they resided be included in the Hanna unit.

Also included in the redistribution of lands in the Hanna Hospital District was an order which detached land from the district and placed it under the Castor Municipal Hospital District No. 8.

Plan Controls For Building Close to City

Organization of a regional planning board to control building for the area outside and adjoining the city, may be set up if negotiations now being carried forward between the city commissioners and the provincial government reach a successful conclusion, city council was informed Monday night.

The report was made in answer to a query from the council's by-laws committee concerning town planning control in municipalities adjoining the city limits.

A conference was held recently between Maxwell C. Dewar, city architect, A. W. Haddow, city engineer, representing the city, and G. H. N. Monkman, deputy minister of public works, and A. P. C. Belva, director of surveys, provincial surveys department, relative to this matter.

It was pointed out at this meeting by the city's representatives that there is considerable settlement adjoining the city and there appears to be very little control, particularly of buildings. Some measure of control would be desirable if these areas are to be more closely associated with the city in the future.

Mr. Monkman expressed the view that the best method of obtaining this control would be to organize a regional planning board, upon which would be represented the city and the municipalities adjoining the city. The board after being formed, could then assume jurisdiction under the Town Planning Act of the provincial government, and would then have control of whatever matter that came within its scope.

Victory Loan Quota Is Up in This Province

In keeping with the increased tempo of the war in Europe as evidenced by the present intensity of the assaults upon the fortress of Germany, Alberta's share of the Eighth "Victory Loan," which opens on April 22, has been increased from $43,300,000 to $47,300,000, said Fred E. Osborne, chairman of the National War Finance Committee for Alberta, in an interview Tuesday.

Such an increase was inevitable, said Mr. Osborne, having in mind the budgetary requirements of the Dominion Government for the fiscal year starting on April 1. Hon. J. L. Hingley, minister of finance, in announcing the terms of the Eighth "Victory Loan" last week, said: "The 'cease fire' in Germany will not remove the necessity for enormous expenditures required for the maintenance and support of our armed forces through the period of their homecoming demobilization and rehabilitation. Then, too, there will be substantial costs of our participation in the Pacific War to weaken now in our financial support would be but to let our boys over there down."

This time, the organization faces a new situation. The Armed forces both at home and abroad have in every campaign responded magnificently and purchased Victory Bonds in surprising totals. Undoubtedly they will do so again but the Provincial Government has a very considerable by the closing down of many stations both in the army and the air force, and a consequent loss of personnel in the province.

Mr. Osborne was satisfied that our citizens generally would accept their additional responsibility in this regard.

Fortunately, statistics of national production during 1944 recently released, placed Alberta in a most favorable position at the present time with much of it being marketed in the new Income Tax year of '45, and available either as bank deposits or cash in hand. Figures for both are now at an all-time high and increasing monthly. At the same time, per capita debt is much reduced, and available supplies which can be purchased still necessarily limited. The logical place for bank credits and cash, therefore, is in Canada's premier security, Victory Bonds, and the Loan, opening on April 22nd is most opportune for such an investment.

Expect Extension Of Tax Deadline

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—Official quarters said yesterday there was a "reasonable prospect" that the deadline for payment of personal income tax for 1944 will be extended beyond April 30. Last year the deadline was extended to Aug. 31 to facilitate the purchase of Victory bonds in the spring campaign.

Alberta Selling Brule Buildings On Open Market

Anybody want to buy a hospital? Or a church, a ten-room apartment block, a dozen or so buildings, a duplex, or even a coal mine tiptoe?

The provincial government has all these structures for sale. The government is disposing by auction of a number of buildings at Brule, near the Jasper Park boundary. Tenders are called for over the signature of T. F. Biefgen, director of forestry, and will be received up to noon of April 7.

Brule was originally a thriving mining town, centred around a mine operated by the old Canadian Northern Railway. The mine, noted for its output, supplied fuel to trains running through the mountains.

CLOSED IN 1926

According to provincial officials, the mine closed down in 1924. Shortly after the government took over buildings in the deserted townsite, and for a time did not attempt to sell them, on the as-

House Learns New Legislation Being Opposed

Discussion of legislation amending the Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act was adjourned in the Legislature Monday afternoon, when a conflict of outside opinion on the legislation became apparent.

When the assembly, in committee of the whole, was studying the amending legislation in detail, opposition of the Calgary Trades and Labor Council to some of the amendments was brought to members' attention.

APPROVAL GIVEN

Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of trade and industry, pointed out that Alberta Federation of Labor representatives had studied the amendments and had expressed approval. (The Calgary council is an affiliate of the Alberta Labor Federation.)

The minister told members that as late as Monday noon an official of the labor federation had phoned to say the bill was just what was wanted.

Elmer E. Roper (CCF-Edmonton) informed the house that the Edmonton Council of the Canadian Congress of Labor was to study the legislation at a meeting to be held Monday night. This organization was very interested in the legislation, but had received copies of the printed bill only Monday, Mr. Roper added.

Major A. Davidson (Ind.-Calgary) said he would like to have an opportunity to check up on provisions of the amendments. "We want to do all we can to protect employer and employee, and reduce strikes," Mr. Davidson declared.

BILL HELD OVER

After further discussion, it was decided to hold the bill in committee in order to devote further study to its contents.

One provision of the amendments increases from 14 to 30 days the time within which the board of industrial relations must report to the minister as to whether a trade union or other organization claiming to be bargaining agent has received a majority of employees' votes.

Another section of the amending bill defines which employees are entitled to vote on the selection of a bargaining agent, or in dealing with acceptance or rejection of an arbitration award. It stipulates they must have been members of a trade union or employees' organization for three months, or if the employees are unorganized, they must have been in that employment for three months.

One section will forbid employees striking during that period between an application for appointment of a conciliation commissioner and 14 days after the date fixed for taking a vote. The voting date is fixed by the minister of trade and industry after an arbitration award has been handed down.

Strikes are the subject of another amending paragraph in the bill, where it is made clear that no employees shall go on strike unless a vote has been taken and has resulted in a majority of the employees affected voting in favor of a strike.

Cut flowers will move quickly if placed near apples, due to a gas given off by the fruit.

J. C. Jones, CPR Superintendent, Is Transferred

Five divisional superintendents of the Canadian Pacific Railway in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta will assume new positions at April 1, Wm. Mason, general manager of western lines said in Winnipeg today. The moves are in keeping with the company's policy of enhancing experience of its supervisory officers, the general manager stated.

R. E. Taylor, now in charge of the Portage division, Winnipeg, will take over the Medicine Hat superintendency; R. C. Wheeler, Medicine Hat, becomes superintendent, Saskatoon; J. R. Strother, Saskatoon, becomes superintendent at Edmonton; J. C. Jones, Edmonton, will be superintendent at Moose Jaw, and Charles Reid, Moose Jaw, becomes superintendent of the Portage division, Winnipeg.

R. C. Wheeler started as car checker at Vancouver in 1909, rose through trainman and conductor at Kamloops, B.C., to assistant superintendent at Minnedosa, Man., in 1938. He held similar posts at Fort William and Medicine Hat before being promoted to superintendent at Medicine Hat November 1, 1942. J. C. Jones started with the engineering department as rodman at Moose Jaw in 1912 and served in a variety of posts on the Saskatchewan district and was assistant superintendent at Prince Albert when he was promoted to superintendent at Edmonton in May, 1944.

House Unlikely To End Session Before Easter

Premier Ernest Manning announced in the Legislature Tuesday afternoon that the assembly would adjourn Wednesday at 6 p.m. and will re-convene Tuesday, April 3, at 3 p.m. to finish business yet before the present session.

Possibility of prorogation of the Legislature this week appeared remote here Tuesday, according to reports circulating among Social Credit members of the assembly.

According to some members, the house will adjourn Wednesday night, and will re-convene Tuesday, April 3, after a one-week Easter recess.

Premier Ernest Manning would not comment Monday on these suggestions, stating an announcement might be made Tuesday afternoon.

SIX RESOLUTIONS

At least six resolutions are scheduled for discussion in the assembly before prorogation takes place, and action on legislation is far from completed.

At the present time, there are 32 bills before the house in various stages. Two were brought into the house Monday, while eight others were given third readings and were "twinned off" the order paper. Included in the 32 bills up for passage is Bill 49, a 184-section consolidation of the Mines Act.

This item is now before the assembly's committee of the whole for clause-by-clause discussion. It was given first reading March 8, and was held for second reading until Monday, when printed copies were distributed to members.

In addition to legislation, a lengthy report being prepared by the post-war reconstruction committee has yet to be submitted to members. The report, completing work of the post-war group which was established two years ago, is said to run into hundreds of pages.

Premier Manning has indicated he would desire a day's debate on the reconstruction report. Implementation of the report will become part of the duties of the new economic affairs department.

Taking into account all this work, members state it is next to impossible to prorogue Wednesday night, even with the aid of night sittings both Tuesday and Wednesday. Rather than try and rush through remaining business, members feel a week's lay-off followed by three or four days of sessions would complete business of the present session.

"Dutch" Lyons Pleads Guilty On 70 Counts

Guilty pleas were entered by Erwood C. "Dutch" Lyons, Edmonton second hand automobile dealer, to 70 counts of violations of War Time Prices and Trade Board regulations. He was remanded by Magistrate H. L. Howe, K.C., until Tuesday morning for sentence.

There were 42 counts of selling motor vehicles above the ceiling set by the WTPB; one of purchasing above the ceiling, and 27 counts of making false statements.

Det.-Sgt. Sidney G. Coggles, R.C.M.P., told the court that investigation made by the police revealed that the accused, in making sales above the ceiling, entered the ceiling selling price in his books and used a code to enter the price obtained above the level set by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Harold Love, chartered accountant, who examined Lyons' books told the court that the normal trading accounts of the accused showed a profit of $8,300 during the period Jan. 1, 1944 to Dec. 4, 1944, but that examination of the code prices entered indicated that a profit of $21,000 had been made during the period.

Gerald O'Connor, K.C., counsel for the Dominion department of justice, said that the department took a serious view of the offences and asked for a jail sentence and fine, or a very substantial fine if a jail sentence was not imposed.

Nelles V. Buchanan, K.C., for the accused, told the court that because private persons up to October 1943 had not been under the ceiling governing the sale of second hand automobiles those engaged in the second hand car business, either had to go out of business or sell above the ceiling.

He added that amendments to the WTPB regulations were made recently which brought private dealers under the ceiling ruling.

RULES VIOLATED

He said the regulations had been violated by private citizens, that there were 42 such violations yet not one of the private citizens involved in these proceedings yet not one of the private citizens involved are before the courts. He suggested that a reasonable fine would meet the ends of justice in this case.

Lyons admitted a previous conviction for selling above the ceiling. He was fined $50 and costs on this charge by Magistrate A. I. Miller, K.C.

Mr. O'Connor and Neil V. German are acting for the Dominion department of justice, and Mr. Buchanan and A. W. Miller, K.C., for the accused.

Investigations leading to the laying of the charges against Lyons were made by Det.-Sgt. S. C. Coggles and Cpl. W. J. Solway, R.C.M.P.

MAKES FAREWELL VISIT—Air Vice Marshal J. A. Sully, AFC (right), air member for personnel at Air Force Headquarters in Ottawa, whose retirement at the middle of next month was announced recently, arrived in Edmonton on Tuesday in the course of a farewell visit to North West Air Command. He is shown shortly after his arrival chatting with Air Vice Marshal T. A. Lawrence, air officer commanding, North West Air Command. Air Vice Marshal Sully is visiting northern RCAF bases of the North West Staging Route during his visit to North West Air Command.

Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic Draws Splendid Support in North

The story of people in sparsely settled sections of the north country trudging many miles through muddy roads to get to the clinic; of men of the RCAF combining their energies to do their part, and of members of the clinic staff working tirelessly to get the job done as soon and as accurately as possible, was unfolded Tuesday by Miss E. T. Huggill, director of the Red Cross mobile blood donor clinic.

Miss Huggill was reviewing her experiences as head of the party that went north during the last month to collect contributions of life-saving plasma for Canadian fighting men in the battle lines of the world. With her assistant, Mrs. H. R. Evans, and the clinic staff, Miss Huggill visited Fort St. John, Grande Prairie and Peace River, to collect a total of 1,112 blood donations from citizens within a 700 mile distance north from this city.

NEED FOR PLASMA

The urgent need for more and ever more blood plasma, coupled with the oft-expressed wishes of northern Red Cross branches to be permitted to make their contribution, prompted the expedition. Extensive preparation was necessary, since the clinic would be travelling by air. Equipment had to be so sorted as to have maximum efficiency and minimum packing space, enough for eight donor beds.

The first week was spent at Fort St. John in the Providence hospital. Arrangements had been made previously by T. Flatt, president of that Red Cross branch, and his co-secretaries, Duncan Cran and Mrs. E. Dods.

Clinic hours were staggered to enable country residents to leave their homes, and members of the armed forces to leave their stations.

Disease Reveals Slight Decrease

A total of 120 cases of communicable disease was reported to the city health department during the week ended March 26 compared with 121 cases the week previous, according to a report filed Tuesday with the city commissioners by Dr. G. M. Little, medical officer of health.

The tabulation of the cases follows:

	This Week	Last Week
Chickenpox	30	17
Measles	8	5
Mumps	78	66
Rubella	2	1
Scarlet Fever	12	13
Septic Sore Throat	1	1

No Place Like Home Returned Officer Describes Feelings on Arrival in City

The following story was written by Capt. J. Harper Prowse, a former member of The Edmonton Bulletin editorial staff, who is home on rotation leave, and to serve as a member of the Alberta Legislature to which he was elected by Alberta men serving in the Canadian Army at home and abroad. He took his seat on Monday. Captain Prowse has put into words the feelings of practically every returning service man, feelings that few may adequately describe.

By CAPT. J. HARPER PROWSE
The Loyal Edmonton Regiment

Nobody in the crowd offered me an outrageous price for my boots. Nobody begged for candy, biscuits or cigarettes. There was no sign of the hard-faced urchins, lurking in the background for a chance to steal an unwatched kit-bag.

In this crowd everybody smiled.

Women pressed cigarettes, chocolate bars, apples and oranges and good-wishes upon us. This crowd didn't want anything from us. They just wanted to give us things, to make us welcome, to make us realize that we had not been forgotten—and their expressions of gratitude were almost embarrassing.

And then we were kissing our wives, and sisters, and sisters-in-law, and mothers and mothers-in-law. I don't imagine there has been such a bulk-kissing spree since Eve had that long conversation with the serpent. In fact I was just on the verge of kissing the policeman on duty at the station when I happened to see the expression on his face and decided to call a halt.

FEELING THE SAME WAY

From the way the other fellows looked I know they were feeling the same things as I was. By golly, we were home at last! We were seeing sons and daughters for the first time in years, some of the boys were seeing theirs for the first time. We felt a little foolish when the tears filled up our eyes—but we felt all good inside. We were home. And we were happy.

The lights and the illuminated signs looked strange. So did all the smartly dressed people.

Unconsciously we looked around to see if there had been much bomb damage here. For a moment we were surprised to see no sign of any. And everything looked so neat, and smart and clean. There weren't any of the usual old-world city smells. And then we realized again that this was home. These were our friends and our families.

So you took just a quiet moment to thank God that the war hadn't passed this way, and another moment to hope that it never shall.

And this was your own kiddie in your arms. Pretty hard to realize that this was the tiny baby, lying asleep in her cot, whom you had carefully kissed good-bye (mustn't wake her up, or she'll be sure to cry, your wife had said then) those centuries ago when you were going away. It was nice to feel those little arms tight around your neck, and the smooth, little face pressed to yours.

HAD TO LAUGH

Then you had to laugh. You felt just that good about everything and everybody. By golly, people are good. These are the same old friends you left, and seem to be really glad to see you. It seemed to make everything worthwhile after all.

And then you felt a little sad. Your mind flashed back to the friends you had left when you left the unit—and how badly you had felt when you realized you had left them. And you thought of the fellows who wouldn't be coming back to all this.

Those gallant friends of yours, who had given their lives so that people here in Canada would never know what it means to have a war pass over their land, destroying their homes. So that others could be as happy as you are now.

THE QUESTION

Spring is here and people are being advised to sharpen up the old garden tools for another Victory garden; the kids are playing their games of marbles and baseball, or skipping-ropes and doll carriages; birds are returning from the south, and fleecy clouds drift by. After all that—what does the return of warmer weather mean to you?

THE ANSWERS:

GEORGE JOHNSON, clerk: It means fishing, to me. Long warm days of angling and cool evenings of camp-fire smoke. Of course, it isn't so convenient to get to the streams where the good fish are as it was a few years back, but it's worth doing without something else just to be able to spend a couple of weeks away from the daily grind.

V. OWENS, electrician: For me, it's golf. I believe that golf is as healthy a sport as any and it is a friendly game into the bargain. There's only one fly in the ointment this year. I can't find any good, reliable golf balls.

ART YELLOWLEES, farmer: I am a farmer, and maybe I haven't any poet in me. You see, a farmer is a person who climbs aboard a plough at 6 a.m., works until dark, chores around after that—all day and every day from now till freeze-up. Then he takes for the grain he's permitted to sell, all the government allows him for it, which is just enough for him to pay his taxes and get in a supply of grub for the winter. Comes spring, and you ask me what warmer weather means to me?

Three Persons Are Injured in Traffic Crashes

Three persons were injured in traffic accidents during Monday night and admitted to city hospitals, while one autoist, said by police to be James B. Milligan of Bon Accord, was arrested and charged with dangerous driving.

Those injured and in hospital were: Steve Semberet, 11139 96 street, taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital suffering from serious injuries to the left leg.

Donald Dingwall, 15, 11203 93 street, in the Royal Alexandra hospital suffering from injuries to the hand, face, shoulder and right hand.

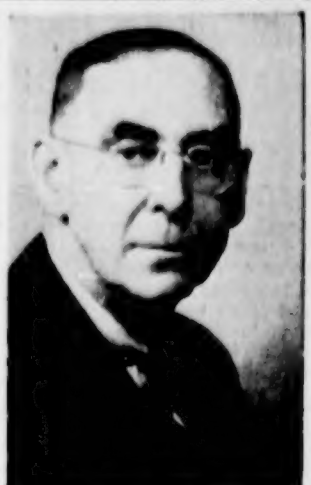

Milligan was arrested following the accident in which Semberet was knocked from his bicycle between 123 and 124 avenues on the Fort Trail about 9:30 p.m. Monday. The autoist told police he saw an egg smash against his windshield, and then felt the car jolt. Stopping, he went back and found the injured man lying on the pavement, with the bicycle smashed and broken eggs scattered along the roadway.

THREE STITCHES

Donald Dingwall, whose injuries to the head required three stitches to close, was knocked from his bicycle on 111 avenue between 93 and 94 streets about 7:30 p.m. the same evening, by an autoist and by police to have been operated by W. Hawrysh, 11130 101 street. He was taken to hospital by Mr. Hawrysh.

George McAllister, taken first to the General hospital and then to University hospital, was not admitted to either after he was injured about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday. Several hours later, police were informed that he returned to the University hospital. Driver of the auto involved, Jack Shecter, 11707 88 street, informed police that McAllister, a pedestrian, had walked into the path of the car at 100 street near 100 avenue.

Sun spots can be seen with the naked eye, if they're 170,000 square miles or more in area.

Dismiss Action Supreme Court

Supreme Court action brought by Miss Anne Lastiwka, Smoky Lake, seeking $10,000 damages from Andrew Shymka, Smoky Lake storekeeper, for injuries received when she fell down a basement stairs in the defendants' store was dismissed by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald in a judgment handed down Tuesday.

The judge held that the plaintiff apparently did not see the railing which guarded the opening to the basement, and found that she was not exercising due care.

"I have great sympathy for the plaintiff. Prior to the accident she was a normal healthy person. Since the accident she has been unable to do any work, and a doctor who gave evidence at the trial says she appeared to be pretty much of an invalid. I suggest that the defendant might forgo his costs."

C. W. Clement, K.C., and L. Pekarsky acted for the defendant, and A. D. Harvie, K.C., and D. Yanda for the plaintiff.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

When the mother of a baby ready to be weaned from the breast determines to take that step, she is confronted by another problem. Shall she wean the baby to a cup or a bottle?

She'll find, as most mothers do, that even if the baby has had water and orange juice by cup he may balk at accepting his milk from that utensil. In his determination not to accept it he may refuse milk for weeks or even longer.

This would be less apt to happen if all babies were given an opportunity to take milk by teaspoon and then by cup very early in their lives. Babies are not so discriminating nor so wedded to habits in the early months and when they discover that warmed milk tastes good they are quite willing to take more and more of it. By the time weaning is due they have become thoroughly accustomed to milk and cup and make no fuss about the change.

When the baby has had no such experience with a cup, weaning is not the best time to force it upon him. Better to make the transition from breast to bottle and then take up the weaning from bottle to cup. Too many changes, too much difficulty in getting his food, may destroy the child's appetite for it.

Weaning should be accomplished gradually for this very reason. Then the child will not grow angry at the food which is both new in taste and difficult to get. One month, or even more, is not too lengthy a period to devote to this change. In that time the baby can have one bottle the first week, two the second, three the third and by the fourth week will be ready to take all milk by bottle.

The child who will make the change most peacefully is the one whose feeding have been so meager that he more than welcomes these generous bottles of nourishment.

Once the baby has forgotten breast-feeding, he can be weaned to a cup in an equally gradual manner. Part of each feeding can be given first by cup, when baby is hungry for it, and then he may finish up on the bottle. One tablespoon may be all he will take at first but little by little he will drink more by cup and less by bottle until he is ready to accept all of his milk by cup.

In these transitions it must be kept in mind that we want to build up only pleasant associations with food, and to deprive a baby of breast-feeding or bottle-feeding all at once is not only shocking to his digestion but emotionally upsetting to his disposition.

Our leaflets, "Weaning the Breast-fed Baby," and "Teaching Use of Cup and Spoon," elaborate the individual steps and may be had for a stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper, with your request.

Points for Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Mother: "Would you like the job of raising the window shades each morning? We take hold of the pulley—this way—and we try to make them all even."

Small children take pride in doing household tasks if they have a good teacher and the task is within their short attention span.

THESE WOMEN—"Oh, oh! Looks as if we're going to have to chip in for another baby gift!"

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Some Parents Prove To Be Real Problem

Old Ideas With Iron Discipline Make It A Lot Harder For A Grown Lone Child; Such A Child Hurt by Parents

DEAR MISS DIX: What good is life to a girl of 19 with problem parents? I've got them. Mine think I am unappreciative because I object to them finding fault with all of my friends. They accuse me of being selfish because, after staying with them every night of the week, I don't want to spend Sunday afternoon going visiting relations with them. I am inconsiderate because I let them worry about my being out as late as 11 o'clock on Saturday night, the only night that I step out.

Is there any way to deal with problem parents who keep one practically a prisoner, or will I have to run away from home, or get married to get my freedom? Believe me, being an only child is one of the worst fates that can befall one, as so much is expected of you.

Answer: What children should do with problem parents is just as much a riddle as what parents should do with problem children. Possibly it is even more difficult to solve because the parents are, at least, in the strategic position of being able to hold the whip hand over the children, whereas the children have no way of coercing Dad and Mom into behaving themselves and acting reasonably.

The trouble with your Father and Mother is that they are a whole generation behind the times in dealing with you. They want to force on you the code of conduct that was in vogue in Grandma's time, which is just as silly and impossible nowadays as it would be to make you ride in an oxcart instead of an automobile. And how you are to get them out of this notion and make them come up to date, goodness only knows.

They do not recognize that in these days all life has been speeded up and that a girl of 19 is just as sophisticated and knows more about the world and how to take care of herself than her Mother did when she was 29. So they worry over your not being home at 11 o'clock, and they want to hand-pick your friends for you, and they think they are giving you a treat when they make you spend your Sunday afternoons visiting stuffy old relatives with them.

All of which is a great mistake on their part and a great infliction on you, but running away from home or getting married isn't going to better your lot. It is jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. Your best plan is to try to re-educate your parents and bring them up-to-date.

ADOPTED

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have adopted two adorable babies who are now one and three years old. They are both illegitimate children. My problem is: How soon should I tell them that they are adopted children? And shall I tell them that they are illegitimate? Their birth certificates are made out to us and there is nothing in them to this effect. Later on we tell them of their real parents, or should we just let the matter drop?

MRS. V. B.

Answer: Adopted children should always be told that they are adopted, and it should be done while they are still so young that they really do not grasp all of the implications. The best way to do it is to tell them that you want a darling little baby and you looked and looked until you found him, or her. That makes the child feel that it is really a distinction to have been selected for its own charms, rather than a baby that the stork brought and wished on its mother.

But certainly there is no need to tell a child that he is illegitimate unless he asks questions on the subject, or to tell him of his mother. That connection should be broken definitely as soon as possible.

I think no one can do a finer thing than to take a poor little forlorn, nameless and homeless and loveless baby and give it an honorable name and a mother's and father's love and care. And here's wishing you all the happiness in the world as a reward for taking these poor little waifs into your heart and home.

QUIET

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband is in the navy and we haven't seen each other for many long months until now when he is coming home for a short leave. He has already expressed his wish that he may have a quiet leave with me alone, but what about his family and friends? They all love him and certainly want to see him after his long absence. What can we do?

Answer: How to keep the returned soldier or sailor from being mobbed by his family and friends when he comes home on his furlough is all so proud of him and so proud of his family that no one knows how to solve, because they fond of him and so anxious to do him honor that he cannot bear to hurt their feelings by rebuffing them.

Only two courses are open to you. One is to meet your husband at some place far from home where you can be alone together. And the other is, before he comes home, to ask his friends to please be merciful and give him a little time alone with you and his immediate family.

McKenney On Bridge

America's Card Authority. In the early days of contract, Dorothy Sims made quite a reputation for herself with psychic bidding. Every once in a while I see a good woman player pull off a fine psychic bid against experts.

Eastern Championships, made today's psychic bid against two of the country's outstanding Life Masters.

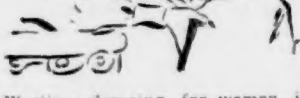

I know that you are going to say both East and West should have bid spades but they did not or there would not have been a story about today's hand.

Now of course Mrs. Neuwirth knew when West doubled a heart that in all probability he was asking his partner to bid spades, so she bid the spade. Well, East's double of one spade actually said, "Partner, that is what I was going to bid had North passed."

However, her best bid came in over West's two diamond call. She still had those six hearts but she knew that she had to keep the opponents from bidding spades; therefore, her second spade bid. Of course East could not resist the chance to double that. Now Mrs. Neuwirth quietly bid four hearts and bought the contract.

You can see that there was no way to defeat four hearts; not was there any way to defeat four spades. Even though you cashed the ace and queen of clubs and tried to give your partner a ruff in clubs, dummy could ruff with the king of spades.

Minute Make-Ups

Wartime dressing, for women, is difficult unless they make a plan—and stick to it! Choose only those accessories that go with your outfit. If you are a blonde, choose pastel accessories. If you are a brunette then drama is your dish. If you are Silver-Haired, choose silver jewelry to complement your type. Don't buy red slacks if your prettiest blouse will not look well with red. It's all a matter of planning!

800 Said Killed

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

WHAT SHOULD CHILDREN WEAR?

When I was a youngster, writes reader R. K., my mother bundled me up in scarves and flannels and I had several bellowing colds every year. When I began to wear only necessary clothing my colds became less frequent. I have worn the lightest clothing the year around for many years—I am now 70 and haven't had anything like a cold for thirty years. I enjoy excellent health.

Ensign P. G. Nolan, adrift in the South Atlantic in an open boat for 39 days, said:

"I was soaking wet every minute of those 39 days, and I came through in good health. But it took me just two days to catch cold when I got to New York."

Prof. Leonard Hill, noted English physiologist and authority on ventilation and fresh air and air conditioning said:

"It is absurd to put on an overcoat when going out for a walk. It is good to go out and be braced by feeling cold and so be impelled to take vigorous exercise."

Dr. Hill meant that to apply to everybody. I, Brady, urge parents to apply the same science and common sense to the welfare of children. When your little one is going out to play, for health's sake do not burden the poor kid with more clothing than the child needs for comfort.

A mother says her son is at the runabout age and likes to play outdoors. But leggings hamper his movements and she would like definite instructions about covering the child's legs, and insisting that the child put on a sweater, etc., whenever he goes out to play. Her own pediatrician agrees with me, she says, but he tells her he simply

Report Hitler Calls Meeting Of Top Nazis

By W. R. HIGGINBOTHAM

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin. LONDON, March 27.—(BUP)—A Zurich dispatch said today that Adolf Hitler had called an emergency meeting of his ministers and gauleiters (district leaders) last night at Berchtesgaden.

Subject of the conference was not disclosed, the dispatch said, but it quoted a German war office spokesman as saying that Germany "must be prepared for unfortunate news."

The dispatch distributed by the Exchange Telegraph Agency, said the plans for the meeting were disclosed by an "unquestionable source." Ministers and gauleiters were transported to Hitler's Bavarian retreat by plane, it said.

CAPITAL JITTERY

Reports reaching Sweden from Berlin said the Nazi capital was more jittery and tense than at any time since the invasion of Norway. Travellers arriving at Malmö from Germany said the mighty raids by Allied planes were driving Berliners "to dementia."

German experts further surprise airborne landing still deeper behind the German lines, Swedish dispatches said.

Arthur Axmann, Nazi Youth leader, called on German girls as well as boys to throw themselves into Germany's last battles.

"ONLY DEEDS CAN HELP," he said, after reciting how boys already had guided shock troops, blown up bridges, acted as spies and unmasked allied spies.

"Consider the concentrated strength of our millions of enthusiastic boys and girls... the youth of Adolf Hitler must become the centre of our national resistance. You boys and girls must never capitulate. There is no going back for us any longer."

Hundreds of thousands of young volunteers "stand ready behind our soldiers," he said. Axmann's talk was broadcast by the Berlin radio.

UNDERGROUND PLANS

The Paris newspaper Figaro said a preliminary contingent of 10,000 specially-trained SS troops had been placed at the disposal of Gestapo chief Heinrich Himmler and begun training as the nucleus of an underground army to carry on guerrilla warfare after the collapse of organized resistance.

Figaro said the Nazi master-plan provides for systematic sabotage of the peace treaty and attacks on occupation forces. Five "hedgehogs" or resistance areas were said to be planned, each with its own general staff and secret supply dumps.

The five areas were identified by Figaro as East Prussia, Wuerttemberg, Western Germany or Hamburg, and one or two areas encompassing Tyrol, Upper Bavaria and Upper Austria.

A Daily Telegraph dispatch from Zurich said three Nazi leaders in Baden had been executed for urging that Germany lay down her arms. Twenty-four Brownshirt leaders also were said to have been arrested in Baden for insubordination.

Drop "Illegitimate" In Registrations

REGINA, March 27.—(CP)—The Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday gave second reading to a bill amending the Vital Statistics Act to end a practice under which a registrar is required to make an entry in the register if the child is born out of wedlock. The registrar is required to write the word "illegitimate," Premier T. C. Douglas said in support of the bill that the term "illegitimate" should be dropped. No child should begin life with a "bar sinister" against its name.

Captives Unlikely To Get Parcels If Sent Direct

OTTAWA, March 27.—(CP)—Elaborating on a previous statement of the prisoner of war situation in Germany, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons that parcels, individually addressed to Canadian prisoners, had little hope of reaching the addressees in certain of the German camps which had recently been moved.

He added it was important for Red Cross parcels to continue to reach the prisoners, but the dislocation of transportation and the transfer of camps in Germany had resulted in little hope of parcels addressed to individuals being delivered.

A new statement on the situation would be made in a few days.

Take Part In Big Battles

South Alberta Regiment's Tanks First to Assault Hochwald Line

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIAN ARMY IN GERMANY.

March 27.—(CP)—First tanks to assault the Hochwald defence lines in the big battles west of the Rhine were those of the South Alberta Regiment which has rolled its armor across half of Europe. (Many Edmonton officers and men are with the SAR.)

The regiment shared in the fighting to clear the Hochwald approaches and captured a spur of high ground east of Udem, overlooking the German state woods. Then it was ordered to support Ontario infantry entering the forest.

Commanded by Maj. A. F. Coffin of Medicine Hat, Alta., and Calgary, the tanks rolled down the slope and through the valley to help an Ontario infantry regiment break through the lines of trenches which screened the forest itself.

REMAIN IN ACTION

The Argvils were relieved but the SAR had to keep troops of tanks in the corridor to support other

The mud was terrible but, although many tanks were bogged, the SAR got through and with their guns helped put the infantry over this obstacle.

The job done, the regiment was told to send a troop of tanks with the Argvils and Sutherland Highlanders from Hamilton to thrust into the Hochwald corridor. The troop, led by Lieut. S. E. Caseley of Charlottetown, went through the raging 30-hour battle which the Argvils had to fight to hold open the gap.

The SAR tanks gave strong support to the Argvils, particularly when the infantry was being counter-attacked. Between them the infantry with Platoon anti-tank weapons, and the tanks knocked out three self-propelled guns, one tank and one towed gun.

The Argvils were relieved but the SAR had to keep troops of tanks in the corridor to support other infantry. Tanks from squadrons commanded by Capt. H. H. Clarke and Maj. G. L. Macdougall, of Calgary, saw action in the gap and the forest.

Two sergeants who did notable work were Laurence Freeman, Camrose, Alta., who took over command of a troop when his officer was wounded, and Frank Friar, Dawson Creek, B.C., nicknamed "First Brew" for the amazing speed with which he brewed a can of tea in a bivouac.

At regimental headquarters are the adjutant, Capt. F. N. Hughes, Edmonton, and Lieut. Dave Kennedy, Fresno, Calif., Gordon Irving, Calgary, Syd Elks, Toronto, and Freeman Perry, Montreal.

"Our greatest obstacles in the Hochwald battle were mud, mines and anti-tank obstacles, all well covered by enemy fire," said Maj. Coffin, "but the regiment was first into the Hochwald and last out. We did a lot of the cleanup on the southern part with the infantry."

World News Highlights Presented in Picture Form

PRISONERS ON THEIR OWN SOIL—These German prisoners, captured in Germany by Canadians during the new drive from Holland, are being marched to the rear and prison cages on their own soil. An amphibian tank waits by the side of the road until the long line of Hitler's alleged supermen passes.

SOUVENIRS—Bob Lepine, 8724 Routhier St., Montreal, Que., who has arrived in Canada from Italy, has gathered enough souvenirs from the enemy and from friends in the American army so that he can almost start his own museum. He landed in Italy as a member of the Special Service Force, composed of American and Canadian parachute troops and was in the fighting at the Anzio beachhead. Helping him display his trophies are some of his buddies, all from Montreal. Left to right: Pte. R. J. Carbone, Pte. Lepine, Sgt. H. Bond, S-Sgt. D. F. Abrams, and Pte. F. A. Peacock. They are displaying a German parachute, German binoculars, German helmet, compass from a Jerry plane, and two revolvers.

CIVILIANS ASSURED OF ADEQUATE PENICILLIN SUPPLY—Production of penicillin in Canada has increased to such an extent that civilian needs, as well as those of the forces and the other United Nations, can be successfully met, it has been officially announced. Above, left, Jackie Dymont, mycology technician in a Canadian penicillin plant, transfers penicillin spores to a solution which will eventually become the mould on which penicillin itself forms in minute droplets. At right is shown an "incubator" room in a Canadian penicillin plant, where the mould-filled bottles rest in conditioned air and controlled temperatures, constantly checked and tested. In each room, 56,000 bottles can be stacked, the gauze spread waist-high to prevent workers from knocking loose the cotton-wool corkings.

REMAINS OF CAPTURED GERMAN VILLAGE—At first glance it looks as though the Canadian soldier in this picture is looking upon nothing but a German village of deserted rubble and ruins. On closer inspection it will be seen that a Canadian bulldozer is clearing streets, levelling bomb holes, and bringing a semblance of order out of chaos.

WITH THE TANKS IN ITALY—“Sandy,” mascot of a Tank Regiment, Light Aid Detachment, has been with the unit since before Dieppe and wears the 1939-43 Star, and the Canadian Volunteer Service Medal with clasp. He is seen here with Craftsman Harry Davies, Westmount, P.Q.

BY RIGHT OF CONQUEST—Pte. G. Foreman, North Shields, England, a British Tommy fighting with the First Canadian Army in Germany, holds a German officer's hat, loaded with salvaged eggs. He would be the envy of his folks back home.

THE BATTLE FOR DUNKIRK—The battle for sullen German garrisons along the coast of France, Dunkirk, Lorient, St. Nazaire, still goes on relentlessly . . . with Canadian and British guns pounding these pockets day and night. Old Man Mud rules supreme, however, and here are Canadian gunners piling ammunition along a narrow gauge track, along which carts are hand pushed at Dunkirk as the mud is too deep for trucks.

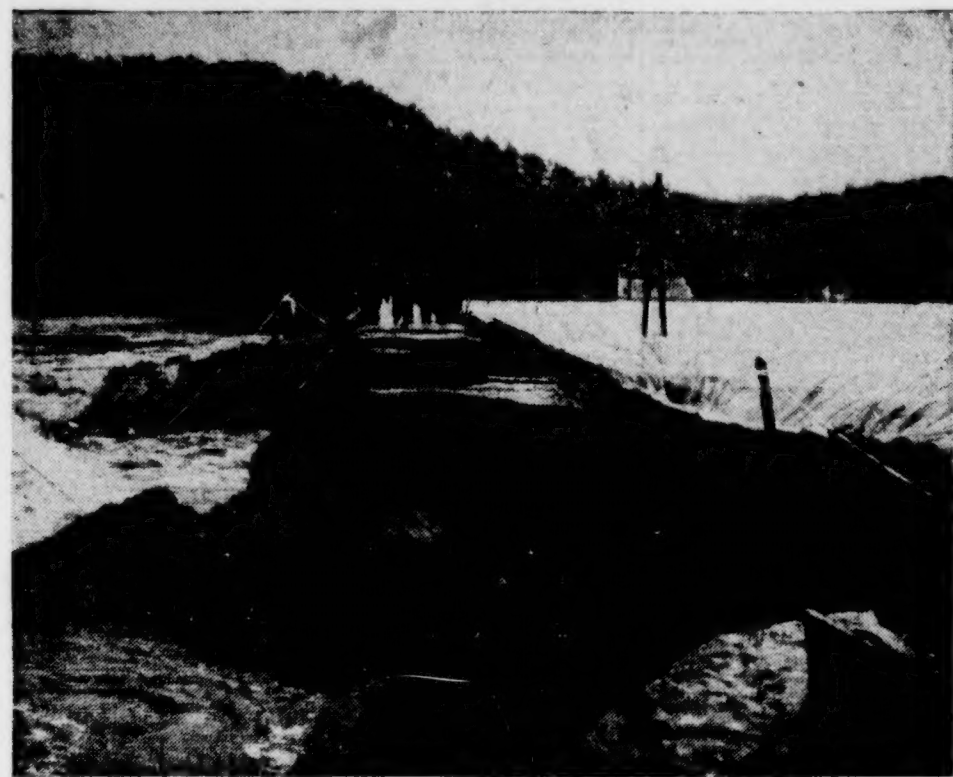

WITH BRITISH—Maj. Barbara Stimson, cousin of the U.S. secretary of war, Henry L. Stimson, is a surgeon with the Royal Army Medical Corps in Rome. She is one of 12 U.S. women doctors who volunteered to go to Britain in 1942 on a lend-lease arrangement.

FAR EAST SKIPPER—Capt. Henry William Urquhart McCall, above, commands H. M. S. Howe, flagship of the newly-formed British Pacific Fleet now assembling in Australian waters to operate against the Japs.

CORVETTE CREW ENTERTAINS BLITZ CHILDREN—The camera catches a happy scene during a party given by the crew of the Canadian corvette, HMCS Mimico, for 120 tiny children of a badly-blitzed English town. The party was held in the local parish hall and the children were waited on and entertained by burly Canadian sailors. All left the party with sweets donated from the men's parcels from home. Electrical Artificer J. H. Storey of London, Ontario, is seen serving rolls to some of the guests.

NOW IT'S GERMANY'S TURN TO SUFFER—The Nazis who laid waste so many countries in their dream of conquest, are now getting a taste of their own medicine. They are in retreat and must lay waste their own land in an attempt to halt the Allied advance. Here is a dam within the borders of the Fatherland which the Nazis have broken open in an attempt to slow down Canadians. But their effort failed.

TRUTH IS STRANGER . . .—This trio may have been a turnout of one of the Canadian Army Shows . . . but they are not . . . truth is stranger than vaudeville . . . a whacky beach umbrella, top hat, captured Nazi flag, the front line and a mud pile is the stage setting for these fighting Canucks. They found their props (all except the mud pile) in a captured German strongpoint during the current drive through Germany. The actors are: L-Cpl. Jack Rattray, Cochrane, Ont.; Pte. Will Nelson, Red Deer, Alta., and Pte. Bill Paulson, Veteran, Alta.

ALLIGATORS IN DRIVE—The "push" has opened again on the Western Front and Canadians have a big part to play in it. Here is one of the many amphibious Alligators manned by the Canadians, as it takes to the lowland flood waters.
